STUBBORN NIGHT FIRE DAMAGES BRUNT POTTERY

The Blaze Started In the Decorating Department and Was Subdued After Long and Arduous Effort.

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $32,000, FULLY INSURED

Long columns of dense smoke issuing from the second story windows along the south wall of the William Brunt pottery building, corner of East Third and Walnut streets, shortly after 9 o'clock last evening, caused the greatest of alarm in the neighborhood, and a hurrying throng of people gathered at the scene. These columns shot 10 feet from the building before losing their spiral shape, evidencing the fierce fire that was raging within.

A few minutes later flames burst through the windows of the east side of the southeast corner and darted half way across the alley that separates the pottery building from the Harker residence property. It looked as if the residence would soon be included in the fire, and only the timely arrival and quick work of the fire department prevented.

The blaze was at first confined to the woodwork between the first and second floors and ignited, it is thought, from the heat of one of the decorating kilns. It was the work of the watchman, Charles Walters, to tear out the door and watch the kiln in the process of cooling. This is properly accomplished by removing the bricks one tier at a time, but it is thought that the watchman did the work with too much haste and the heat issuing through the door soon had the surrounding wood-work in a highly inflammable state.

When the combustion came the whole room sprang, in an instant, into a raging blaze. Walters hurried to the corner of Walnut and East Fourth streets and turned in an alarm. Another alarm was turned in by J. E. Anderson.

The firemen soon learned that they were confronted by one of the most difficult fires in years and the East End department was called out. Lines were first laid to the southeast corner of the building and along the south wall, but the stubborn flames thrived in spite of the steady streams of water that were trained on them. Ladders were erected against the south wall and the firemen battled to prevent the flames from spreading along the second floor, which is part of the glost warehouse, and communicating to the third floor, which is occupied with the decorating department.

Several of the employees in the clerical department hastened to the offices and secured the books and valuable papers of the firm in the fire proof safe. The venerable William Brunt, who has been ill at his home for the past week, hastened to the burning building and tried to make his way through the dense smoke to the offices. He was detained on the stairway and compelled to retire.

The lines from the East End department were taken to the second floor through the office and to the third floor by ladders and through the windows from the Walnut street side. The fire was thus confined to the southeast portion of the building.

The floor immediately surrounding the decorating kilns, between the first and second floors soon gave way and ware from the bins fell through with a deafening crash. The smoke was dense and stifling and the firemen in the building and on the ladders at the windows were almost suffocated. The glass in the windows was shattered by the heat and the draft, and the falling fragments added greatly to the peril of the fire fighters.

In a short time the flames reached the third floor, where they found fresh

A BIG COMPANY WITH MILLION CAPITAL

WILL MAKE GAS ACCORDING TO THE LOCAL PROCESS.

Deal Closed By Which Pittsburg Capitalists Will Establish Big Industry.

H. H. C. Hammerton, Supt. R. E. Rayman and Attorney Walter B. Hill stockholders of the Gas Apparatus & Construction company, of this city, were in Pittsburg yesterday, and at the conclusion of a conference in the Frick building with Attorneys Lewis and Flowers, papers were signed and sealed which will give to Pittsburg capitalists the privilege of manufacturing gas. For the privilege the Pittsburg parties have agreed to pay in the neighborhood of $18,000 a year.

Incorporation papers in the state of New Jersey will be applied for within the next few weeks. The company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, and will be known as the Trans-Atlantic Gas company. It is the intention to construct the plant in Allegheny county.

Frank and his brother, Ralph, started a heated conversation while walking up Fifth street and it increased in heat at every step until they reached the corner of Market street. There they decided to part, but not without giving each other a love tap. One tap brought on another and before they finally separated Frank's face looked as though it had been up against a battering ram. It is thought that even then he would not have deserted the corner had he not seen the officer approaching.

Having been arrested before the young man knew that he would not sleep on a bed of roses if the officer laid hands on him, and he dashed away at a terrific rate.

Mr. Hammerton is authority for the statement that negotiations are also on between the local company and capitalists of Youngstown, Anderson, Ind., Wooster and Cleveland.

DYNAMITE FOR BANQUETERS

Anonymous Postal Card to Col. Taylor Says Anarchists Will Blow Up Building Where Distinguished Men Are to Feast at Canton Tonight.

A profound sensation was occasioned early last evening among the East Liverpool delegation honored by an invitation to attend the McKinley banquet to be held at Canton tonight in commemoration of the late president's birthday anniversary, when Colonel John N. Taylor, one of the delegation, disclosed the fact that he had received warning not to attend the banquet, as anarchists had planned to dynamite the building.

HUGHES WORKING FOR 8-HOUR LAW

Brotherhood President Arouses Opposition of Trenton Pottery Manufacturers.

MEASURE DECLARED BAD

By One Manufacturer Who Says It Will Result in Curtailing Wages And Curtail Productive Capacity—Position of the Workers.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Trenton, N. J., January 27.—President A. S. Hughes has reached Trenton in a very opportune time when measures affecting the pottery trade and organized labor in general are receiving the attention of both state and federal law-making bodies.

Before the United States senate the eight-hour bill is waiting to be transported to the president's desk for his signature. President Hughes has displayed an active interest in this measure, and the effect it will have on the pottery trade. Mr. Hughes' honest opinion is, that although the bill is meeting with much opposition from the manufacturers in the United States Potters' association, he failed to see how it will affect their interests. His recent statement to this effect has been set upon by the manufacturers, who claim that the bill is decidedly against the best interests of the employer and employee.

"The published statement of President Hughes, of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters," said a leading manufacturer yesterday, "is misleading in a way. He says the potters would not be affected by the bill now before the United States senate. I fail to see why the potters would not be governed by the law, just as strictly as any other class of trades men.

"If the bill passes the senate and we allow the men to continue as at present to make extra money by working ten or eleven hours, I guarantee that we will soon be overwhelmed with suits. It is a bad measure from the standpoint of the pottery industry, the operatives being as deeply affected as the manufacturers. It will mean the reduction of salaries of the employees and the serious crippling of our productive capacity."

Since the introduction of the bill in the legislature last week, raising the age limit for the employment of boys to 15 and girls to 14, much interest is being centered upon the final outcome. The State Board of Trade has got its machinery to working and comes forward with a measure, which if it becomes a law will affect every labor union in the state. The new bill will, it is said, be aimed especially at labor unions, a number of which are not incorporated.

The desire of such a law is felt, especially among contractors and employers forced to make contracts with these unions. The employers complain that the unions that are not incorporated cannot be held to the terms of the trade contract by legal procedure

The warning was written on a postal card, postmarked at Chicago and was worded about as follows:

"Dear Friend Mr. Taylor—If you value your life, don't attend the McKinley banquet at Canton Tuesday evening. I am informed that the building will be blown to atoms during the progress of the festivities. Anarchists are behind the plot, and they are after President Roosevelt, who will be present."

There was no signature attached to the message, and Col. Taylor at once determined to not let the matter worry him. He argued that the postal was written to convey the idea that it was from a personal friend. Had it been from one it most certainly would have contained the signature of the man caring so much for his welfare and safety.

Other members of the delegation were not so easily convinced of its being a fake. They pondered over the words and much uneasiness was shown by them for some time. However, they, accompanied by Col. Taylor, left on the noon train for Rochester, where they transfer to a train that will bear them into Canton at 4 o'clock

SLEEPING MAN ROBBED OF $370

He Is Alleged to Have Been Chloroformed and His Pockets Rifled.

CUFFY KOUNTZ VICTIM

And the Contest For the Nomination Promises to Be Lively — State Board of Engineers Makes Important Changes In Its Regulations.

Daring daylight robbers entered the home of Guffy Kountz, an aged man, living between this city and Wellsville, late yesterday afternoon, administered chloroform and robbed him of $370 which was a portion of the money he had received from the Pennsylvania railroad company for a sale of property.

Mr. Kountz owned a piece of ground abutting the C. & P. tracks, which was needed by the company for the proposed new double track. The sale of the property was completed a week ago for $550 and the check received yesterday morning, was taken to a Wellsville bank and cashed. He returned to his home with the money early in the afternoon and divided it in two wallets. He was not feeling well and lay down on the bed where he soon fell asleep. He had evidently been watched by the robbers as the house was entered between 3 and 4 o'clock, during the absence of the other members of the family, and after administering chloroform, as it is supposed to the sleeping man, a search for the money was begun. They succeeded in finding only the wallet which contained $370 and made good their escape before the other members of the family returned.

Mr. Kountz has two persons under suspicion and their names have been furnished to the police.

NON-SUPPORT WAS CHARGED

Earl Cochran Arrested, But the Case Was Speedily Com- promised.

Earl Cochran, employed in the packing department of the Dresden pottery, was arrested while at work this morning by Constable Powell. The charge was non-support and was sworn to by May Cochran, his wife. The warrant alleges that he failed to provide for the care of two minor children.

Cochran was arraigned in Squire Rose's court this morning, but before the trial of the case opened an agreement was reached between himself and wife by which the latter is to receive $10 from his salary each pay.

THREE WILLING TO BE SENATORS

Belmont County Prolific of Candidates for the Upper House of Ohio.

SITUATION IS INTERESTING

Had Received a Large Sum And After Returning Home Law Down to Rest When Some One Entered the House And Robbed Him.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, January 27.—It is reported that there are three citizens of Belmont county who would be willing to enter the senatorial arena were there sufficient provocation for their doing so. Two of these gentlemen have already held office, and the third has had an overwhelming ambition to do so for years, but has been disappointed.

The trio are Hon. E. B. Armstrong, of Washington township, Belmont county ex-Probate Judge Gaston, of St. Clairsville, and R. A. Hunt, who claims Belmont as his home but has been living in Columbus for several years. Should he become a candidate the question of legal residence would be urged against him.

Mr. Armstrong has served two terms as representative and is accused of having had a hankering for the senatorial toga since his retirement as a legislator.

Hunt was a candidate for senator six years ago, but made a poor showing in the convention. Hunt and Archer are bitterly opposed to each other politically. Gaston is Foraker man and is said to be Archer's supporter.

Charles Howard, of Barnesville, has been a tentative candidate, but the only aspirant in Belmont county who has made formal announcement of his candidacy is Attorney J. C. Heinlein, of Bridgeport, and it looks as if he has the best of the situation in his county, the activity of his canvass having much to do with this. Howard would make a formidable candidate were he to go in to win but he may decide not to make a hard fight for the plum.

Heinlein is Foraker's man and is said to be Archer's supporter.

The Age and Bulletin, rival Republican papers of Coshocton, which have been at each other's throat for years have merged under the name of the Age Publishing company. Both papers claim the deal is for party harmony.

The state board of stationary engineers has revised its rules and regulations relating to the examination of applicants for licenses. Two years' experience instead of one will be required and a boiler and pump license will be so drawn that a person cannot operate an extensive pumping plant under it. No applicant will be permitted to go beyond his district for a license without a permit and candidates must apply in person. Examinations will be submitted in writing, and applicants unable to read or write are required to bring persons who can perform this service for them. Fifteen days' notices of the expiration of licenses will be given and renewals will not be granted after three

A NEW STREET RAILWAY TO EAST END DISTRICTS

C. A. Smith Behind a Project For Which the Rights of Way Are Practically All Secured.

LAND FOR POWER HOUSE ALREADY PURCHASED

The latest and by far the most gigantic undertaking in the business career of C. A. Smith and his associates, who are noted for their extraordinary enterprise and tact, has just come to the public notice. When realized, the project will mean much to the people of East Liverpool. The News Review is able to give the details as they were outlined by Mr. Smith himself.

For many years, in fact, ever since the line was constructed, the service given by the East Liverpool street railway has been anything but satisfactory, both to private and business interests. C. A. Smith, with his characteristic business tact, grasped the situation early, and from time to time during the period since the East Liverpool and Rock Springs line has been in operation, it has occurred to him that the East Liverpool company should have opposition. To the citizens generally and to the patrons in particular the Rock Springs road has been a valuable.

Both in the matter of equipment and service the line has been phenomenally successful and satisfactory.

Mr. Smith and his associates In business went quietly to work six weeks ago in an attempt to secure the right of way for a street railway line from the city proper to the East End suburb, and state that no difficulty has been experienced in taking them up. The people have demonstrated their confidence in Mr. Smith and his company. It is now stated that practically every foot of the right of way has been secured, and the company is encouraged to go ahead with the work.

There will be opposition, but it will not be of a formidable character, and days after the expiration date, a period of 90 days must elapse before an applicant has failed can take another examination. All the district deputies were present when the new rules and regulations were formulated.

Assistant Adjutant General H. M. Taylor has gone to Washington with a requisition for the new Krags rifles with which the National Guard is to be equipped under the Dick law, enacted recently. Ohio's requisition will probably be the first filled.

The cash balance in the state treasury aggregates over $4,000,000.

STUBBORN NIGHT FIRE DAMAGES BRUNT POTTERY

The Blaze Started In the Decorating Department and Was Subdued After Long and Arduous Effort.

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $32,000, FULLY INSURED

Long columns of dense smoke issuing from the second story windows along the south wall of the William Brunt pottery building, corner of East Third and Walnut streets, shortly after 9 o'clock last evening, caused the greatest of alarm in the neighborhood, and a hurrying throng of people to gather at the scene. These columns shot 10 feet from the building before losing their spiral shape, evidencing the fierce fire that was raging within.

A few minutes later flames burst through the windows of the east side of the southeast corner and darted half way across the alley that separates the pottery building from the Harker residence property. It looked as if the residence would soon be included in the fire, and only the timely arrival and quick work of the fire department prevented.

The blaze was at first confined to the woodwork between the first and second floors and ignited, it is thought from the heat of one of the decorating kilns. It was the work of the watchman, Charles Walters, to tear out the door and watch the kiln in the process of cooling. This is properly accomplished by removing the bricks one tier at a time, but it is thought that the watchman did the work with too much haste and the heat issuing through the door soon had the surrounding wood-work in a highly inflammable state.

When the combustion came the whole room sprang, in an instant, into a raging blaze. Walters hurried to the corner of Walnut and East Fourth streets and turned in an alarm. Another alarm was turned in by J. E. Anderson.

The firemen soon learned that they were confronted by one of the most difficult fires in years and the East End department was called out. Lines were first laid to the southeast corner of the building and along the south wall, but the stubborn flames thrived in spite of the steady streams of water that were trained on them. Ladders were erected against the south wall and the firemen battled to prevent the flames from spreading along the second floor, which is part of the glost warehouse, and communicating to the third floor, which is occupied with the decorating department.

Several of the employees in the clerical department hastened to the offices and secured the books and valuable papers of the firm in the fire proof safe. The venerable William Brunt, who has been ill at his home for the past week, hastened to the burning building and tried to make his way through the dense smoke to the offices. He was detained on the staircase and compelled to retire.

The lines from the East End department were taken to the second floor through the office and to the third floor by ladders and through the windows from the Walnut street side. The fire was thus confined to the southeast portion of the building.

The floor immediately surrounding the decorating kilns, between the first and second floors soon gave way and were from the bins fell through with a deafening crash. The smoke was dense and stifling and the firemen in the building and on the ladders at the windows were almost suffocated. The glass in the windows was shattered by the heat and the draft, and the falling fragments added greatly to the peril of the fire fighters.

In a short time the flames reached the third floor, where they found fresh

A BIG COMPANY WITH MILLION CAPITAL

WILL MAKE GAS ACCORDING TO THE LOCAL PROCESS.

Deal Closed By Which Pittsburgh Capitalists Will Establish Big Industry.

H. H. C. Hammerton, Supt. R. E. Rayman and Attorney Walter B. Hill stockholders of the Gas Apparatus & Construction company of this city, were in Pittsburgh yesterday, and at the conclusion of a conference in the Frick building with Attorneys Lewis and Flowers, papers were signed and sealed which will give to Pittsburgh capitalists the privilege of manufacturing gas. For the privilege the Pittsburg parties have agreed to pay $12,000 a year.

Incorporation papers in the state of New Jersey will be applied for within the next few weeks. The company will be capitalized at $1,000,000, and will be known as the Trans-Atlantic Gas company. It is the intention to construct the plant in Allegheny county.

Frank and his brother, Ralph, started a heated conversation while walking up Fifth street and it increased in heat at every step until they reached the corner of Market street. There they decided to part, but not without giving each other a love tap. One tap brought on another and before they finally separated Frank's face looked as though it had been up against a battering ram. It is thought that even then he would not have deserted the corner had he not seen the officer approaching.

Having been arrested before the young man knew that he would not sleep on a bed of roses if the officer laid hands on him, and he dashed away at a terrific rate.

Mr. Hammerton is authority for the statement that negotiations are also on between the local company and capitalists of Youngstown, Anderson, Ind., Wooster and Cleveland.

HUGHES WORKING FOR 8-HOUR LAW

Brotherhood President Arouses
Opposition of Trenton Pottery Manufacturers.

MEASURE DECLARED BAD

GUFFY KOUNTZ VICTIM

SITUATION IS INTERESTING

By One Manufacturer Who Says It
Will Result in Curtailing Wages
And Curtail Productive Capacity—
Position of the Workers.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Trenton, N. J., January 27.—President A. S. Hughes has reached Trenton in a very opportune time when measures affecting the pottery trade and organized labor in general are receiving the attention of both state and federal law-making bodies.

Before the United States senate the eight-hour bill is waiting to be transported to the president's desk for his signature. President Hughes has displayed an active interest in this measure, and the effect it will have on the pottery trade. Mr. Hughes' honest opinion is, that although the bill is meeting with much opposition from the manufacturers in the United States Potters' association, he failed to see how it will affect their interests. His recent statement to this effect has been set upon by the manufacturers, who claim that the bill is decidedly against the best interests of the employer and employee.

"The published statement of President Hughes, of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters," said a leading manufacturer yesterday, "is misleading in a way. He says the potters would not be affected by the bill now before the United States senate. I fail to see why the potters would not be governed by the law, just as strictly as any other class of trades men.

If the bill passes the senate and we allow the men to continue as at present to make extra money by working ten or eleven hours, I guarantee that we will soon be overwhelmed with suits. It is a bad measure from the standpoint of the pottery industry, the operatives being as deeply affected as the manufacturers. It will mean the reduction of salaries of the employees and the serious crippling of our productive capacity."

Since the introduction of the bill in the legislature last week, raising the age limit for the employment of boys to 15 and girls to 14, much interest is being centered upon the final outcome. The State Board of Trade has got its machinery to working and comes forward with a measure, which if it becomes a law will affect every labor union in the state. The new bill will, its framers say, provide for the compulsory incorporation of every association or society in the state. The bill, it is said, is aimed especially at labor unions, a number of which are not incorporated.

The desire of such a law is felt, especially among contractors and employers forced to make contracts with these unions. The employers complain that the unions that are not incorporated cannot be held to the terms of the trade contract by legal procedure.

SLEEPING MAN ROBBED OF $370

He Is Alleged to Have Been Chloroformed and His Pockets Rifled.

And the Contest For the Nomination Promised to Be Lively—State Board of Engineers Makes Important Changes In Its Regulations.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, January 27.—It is reported that there are three citizens of Belmont county who would be willing to enter the senatorial arena were there sufficient provocation for their doing so. Two of these gentlemen have already held office, and the third has had an overwhelming ambition to do so for years, but has been disappointed.

The trio are Hon. E. B. Armstrong, of Washington township, Belmont county ex-Probate Judge Gaston, of St. Clairsville, and R. A. Hunt, who claims Belmont as his home but has been living in Columbus for several years. Should he become a candidate the question of legal residence would be urged against him.

Mr. Hunt owned a piece of ground abutting the C. & P. tracks, which was needed by the company for the proposed new double track. The sale of the property was completed a week ago for $550 and the check received yesterday morning, was taken to a Wellsburg bank and cashed. He returned to his home with the money early in the afternoon and divided it in two wallets. He was not feeling well and lay down on the bed where he soon fell asleep. He had evidently been watched by the robbers as the house was entered between 3 and 4 o'clock, during the absence of the other members of the family, and after administering chloroform, as it is supposed to the sleeping man, a search for the money was begun. They succeeded in finding only the wallet which contained $370 and made good their escape before the other members of the family returned.

Mr. Kountz has two persons under suspicion and their names have been furnished to the police.

Earl Cochran Arrested, But the Case Was Speedily Compromised.

Earl Cochran, employed in the packing department of the Dresden pottery, was arrested while at work this morning by Constable Powell. The charge was non-support and was sworn to by May Cochran, his wife. The warrant alleges that he failed to provide for the care of two minor children.

Cochran was arraigned in Squire Rose's court this morning, but before the trial of the case opened an agreement was reached between himself and wife by which the latter is to receive $200 from his salary each pay.

THREE WILLING TO BE SENATORS

Belmont County Prolific of Candidates for the Upper House of Ohio.

Had Received a Large Sum And After Returning Home Law Down to Rest When Some One Entered the House And Robbed Him.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, January 27.—It is reported that there are three citizens of Belmont county who would be willing to enter the senatorial arena were there sufficient provocation for their doing so. Two of these gentlemen have already held office, and the third has had an overwhelming ambition to do so for years, but has been disappointed.

The intention is to start at a point on Fifth street where the East Liverpool street railway line has been anything but satisfactory, both to private and business interests. C. A. Smith, with his characteristic business tact, grasped the situation early, and from time to time during the period since the East Liverpool and Rock Springs line has been in operation, it has occurred to him that the East Liverpool company should have opposition. To the citizens generally and to the patrons in particular the Rock Springs road has been a revolution.

Both in the matter of equipment and service the line has been phenomenally successful and satisfactory.

Mr. Smith and his associates in business went quietly to work six weeks ago in an attempt to secure the right of way for a street railway line from the city proper to the East End suburb, and state that no difficulty has been experienced in taking them up.

The people have demonstrated their confidence in Mr.

Smith and his company. It is now stated that practically every foot of the right of way has been secured, and the company is encouraged to go ahead with the work.

There will be opposition, but it will not be of a formidable character, and days after the expiration date. A period of 30 days must elapse before an applicant has failed to can another examination.

All the district deputies were present when the new rules and regulations were formulated.

Assistant Adjutant General H. M. Taylor has gone to Washington with a requisition for the new Krug Jorgenson rifles with which the National Guard is to be equipped under the Dick law, enacted recently. Ohio's requisition will probably be the first filled.

The cash balance in the state treasury aggregates over $4,000,000.

the claim is made by the interested ones that it emanates from the opposition company. In any case, the citizens generally will be the deciding power, and to them the case will be presented. In an interview with a News Review reporter this morning, Mr. Smith said:

"It is a very simple question, and one which should not be hard to determine. If the people of East Liverpool and vicinity want a competing railway line they can get it without a cent of expense or inconvenience to themselves. That is our proposition, and we propose to be made clear as to their feelings with regard to the matter before we proceed. We expected there would be opposition, but are prepared to meet it. The entire question is up to the people. If they want a line which will give satisfactory service we will furnish it."

"It has been said that the residents of Thompson and Pennsylvania avenues object to the construction of a railroad upon these thoroughfares. Now, as far as Pennsylvania avenue is concerned, we do not propose to utilize one inch of the road for any purpose other than a single crossing. The intention is to start at a point on Fifth street where the East Liverpool street railway line passes on Market street. From there it will follow Fifth street across Broadway and continue out Fifth to the top of the hill. We have not fully determined just what course it will take from there, but it will either traverse Vine street or Thompson avenue to a point south of the reservoir. In that way Pennsylvania avenue will be reached, and it is here, we will encounter the difficulty. Now as a matter of fact we have secured pri-

In My Heart I Could

Was On The Verge

Choking Sensations I Was Afraid to Sleep.

"For years I was troubled with pain around the heart, fluttering and choking sensations. Part of the time could not lie down. In short I was a nervous wreck; such violent jerking of the arms and limbs; nervous prostration—in fact was on the verge of insanity—was afraid to sleep for fear I would never awaken. I saw a testimonial in our paper from a man similarly afflicted, and an account of the help he derived from the use of Dr. Miles' remedies. By the persistent use of the Heart Cure, Nervine, and Pain Pills I soon felt like a woman. I am never without these remedies now. In writing the above I feel that the world is told. No one who has not been through it knows or can know what 'on the verge of insanity' means. Your remedies were surely a god-send to me. There is scarcely a week but what I recommend them and in nearly every case induce someone to try your remedies, and the results are so satisfactory that they continue to take them. One recent instance I recall. I was in Lawrence and called to see a friend who was sick with myocarditis. She was sick with chest pain and had given the name to my mother to gether she administered to her to send for them. She had only to take two of the Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and she was free from pain."—Mrs. Arthur Osborn, Decatur, Mich.

"For years I was troubled with pain around heart, fluttering and choking sensations—most of the time could not lie down. In short it was a nervous wreck; such violent jerkings of the arms and limbs; nervous prostration—in fact was on the verge of insanity—was afraid to sleep for fear I would never awaken. I saw a testimonial in our paper from a man similarly afflicted, and an account of the help he derived from the use of Dr. Miles' remedies. By the persistent use of the Heart Cure, Nervine, and Pain Pills, soon felt like a new woman. I am now without these remedies now. In writing the above I feel that the last has not been told. No one who has not been through it knows or can know what 'on the verge of insanity' means. Your remedies were surely a godsend to me. There is scarcely a week but what I recommend them and in nearly every case induce someone to try your remedies, and the results are so satisfactory that they continue to take them. One recent instance I recall. I was in Louisville and called to see a friend who was very sick with cardiac rheumatism. She was near crazed with pain and had given the money to my mother to get her some morphine to quiet the pain. I told her what your Pain Pills had done for me and finally persuaded her to send them. She had only to take two of the Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and she was free from pain."—Mrs. Arthur Osborn, Decatur, Mich.

TELEPHONE SYSTEM FOR RAILROADS

INSTALLED BY THE WHEELING & LAKE ERIE ROAD.

For Use in Case of Emergency—Train-men May Talk With Stations
From Any Point.

The Wheeling & Lake Erie has recently equipped a number of its freight cabooses with the new telephone system, which has been in use at several stations of the road for the past two months.

By means of this instrument, the conductor of a freight train may secure telephone connection with four of the offices of the road in a few minutes. Cleveland, Canton, Kent and Navarre are equipped with the instruments and should any wreck or any other accident happen to a freight, the conductor could secure a line of communication with any of these offices by merely throwing an extension rod up to the telegraph wires. The rod has much the appearance of a jointed fish pole and requires very little time to adjust.

The telephoning over the telegraph wires does not interfere with their use for telegraphing, as both operations can be carried on at the same time. The inventor of the system is now at work on the scheme, trying to render it still nearer perfection, as there are several small inconveniences which prohibit its taking the place of the telegraph except in cases of emergency.

A short time ago the Wabash railroad requested that the Wheeling give them the benefit of their experience in the matter and will likely develop in the course of time that all of the Gould railroads will adopt the device as well as many others. The Wheeling was the first to adopt it and has found that, while still in its crude stages, the device is a very good and valuable one to railroads and when perfected will no doubt entirely supersede its time-honored rival, the telegraph.

REALM OF SPORTS

MERCER TOOK CARE OF HIS PITCHING ARM

Liniment And Plasters Liberally Used
When He Was Engaged in Field Work.

There is probably no pitcher of recent years, says a well known sporting writer, who took the care of himself as Winnie Mercer did. He realized that it was his stock in trade, and its every whim was catered to at a complete disregard of time or trouble.

Mercer never went into a game without at least a half hour of work on his arm and shoulder. After a thorough treatment by the club masseur, the standard liniment in use by all ball players would be liberally applied and rubbed in.

Another massage would follow and the player would then produce a compound of his own. It was in liquid form and smelt strongly of ammonia but none of his friends knew where he got it or what its ingredients were.

This would also be rubbed in, and when the final massage would be finished the arm would be well covered up and the work on the field would be gin.

If the day was hot Mercer never used porous plasters on his shoulders, but if there was a chill in the air the big plaster would be spread on the back of the shoulder, and another over the front.

The action of the plaster on warm days was replaced by the special liniment, which other pitchers, who have used it, have found unusually severe and biting. His warming up was as thorough as his indoor preparation.

Slow balls, pitched with a full body swing, formed the greater part of his work, and often one of the substitutes did the catching.

When this had been kept up long enough to remove all possibility of strain, Mercer would signal to the man detailed to do the catching, and there would be a few fast ones and curves but not more than a half dozen as a rule.

Between the innings Mercer's arm was always bundled up, no matter how hot the day. To many this exceeding care has been the explanation commonly given to Mercer's long usefulness on the diamond in a position where many men cannot last more than three or four years.

Since final arrangements have been made by Larry Lutz and Charley Miller for their 15-round bout to be pulled off before the Nonpareil club at Beaver Falls on the evening of February 1, Lutz has gone into training and yesterday morning made his first trip over the hill districts. He states that he does not expect to have a "sausage" in Miller and will train continuously until the date.

Many of his personal friends and backers in the city are so confident that he will win from the Pennsylvania lad that they have sent word to Beaver Falls that any amount under $100 will be covered at even money. The enmity that has existed between the two for several years will no doubt cause them to fight in dead earnest, and all can rest assured that an interesting contest will greet every spectator.

THE REASON GIVEN.

The reason for the two weeks layoff at the New Cumberland plant of the Union Pottery company is given that a change will be made from scheme to general ware. It is thought that the change can be made in the time stated.

CLOCK WAS WRONG.

Ed Messer, his batter-out, Reuben McCoy and Walter Cronin, who board at his home, reached the Union pottery, where they are employed, an hour too early yesterday morning. In some way the alarm clock will ring across the household, sounding the alarm an hour too soon and the mistake was not discovered until they reached the plant.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The directors of the East Liverpool Pottery company held a meeting last evening in the offices of the coming or the purpose of selecting officers for the following year. Only one change was made. Robert Hall, succeeding George C. Murphy, as president. Mr. Murphy was elected auditor.

TWO STRAIGHT GAMES

The Local Team Suffered Defeat For the Second Time at Marietta Saturday Evening.

The local Y. M. C. A. basketball team was defeated for the second time by the Marietta team at the latter city Saturday night. The Register had the following to say of it:

The game was won by only one point, the final score being 11 to 10 in favor of the home team. The latter in the course of the game developed the first team work it has yet shown this year. Not a single man at any time became rattled and lost his head and the ball. The East Liverpool boys played a terribly hard game. It was surely their misfortune, not their fault, that they lost the game. The play tended a little towards roughness in the second half, but never became dirty. East Liverpool was a little off on basket throwing, missing many good chances. As usual, she put up a fine game at passing the ball, while the Marietta team showed a decided improvement in this regard also, and with her advantage in height to help her succeeded in taking care of the ball in great style.

At the close of the first half the score stood 6 to 2 in favor of Marietta, in the second half, however, East Liverpool strengthened up wonderfully and all through the half played a fierce game. In this half she made eight points to Marietta's five.

HOW A POLICEMAN

Tony Mullane, Famous As a Ball Player, Now One of Chicago's Finest.

Tony Mullane, the baseball player, donned a brand new uniform the other day and now is a full-fledged Chicago policeman. Tony was a long time quitting baseball, and has been one of the marvels of the game. He was pitching for Erie, Pa., in 1879, and from there he went into the American association.

He signed in 1884 every contract that had any advance money in it, and elected to play at Toledo, that club having to get him out of jail on habeas corpus proceedings in almost every town. His peculiar motion saved his arm, which, he said only last summer, had never been sore in twenty-three years of use.

Could Not Find Quarters.

The members of the West End Rovers' football team and the West End Athletic association have been compelled to forego their project of establishing a club room and gymnasium, owing to the fact that a suitable building could not be found. The Rovers will preserve their organization and line up for the next football season with practically the same players that it closed the season with. They will purchase new uniforms before next season.

Makes Football a Crime.

At Sioux Falls, South Dakota, among the freak bills just introduced in the legislature is one having for its object the effectual killing of the game of football in that state. The provisions of the bill are unusually severe. Any person playing the game is liable to a fine of $1,000 and imprisonment for a term of five years, while the simple announcement of an intention to play makes a person liable to be put under heavy bonds.

Finnerty Retires.

"Squirrel" Finnerty, formerly a well-known pugilist of Youngstown, and the hero of many desperate encounters in the prize ring, has retired from pugilism, married a young lady at Lorain, O., and is now labor boss of a big gang of men at the steel works in that city.

SPORTING MISCELLANY.

Fred Tenney will likely be made captain of the Boston Nationals this season.

Angus Grant, of Defiance, Ohio, has been chosen manager of the South Bend Central league team.

Pan Johnson denies that either

Reich or Angus is behind the New York American league club.

Jack Sheridan, last season in the American league, has been offered a place on the American association umpire staff.

Shorty Fuller has come to life once more. It is said the once famous New York shortstop will play second base for the Muncie, Ind., team.

Arndt, the clever player who was drafted into service very suddenly last summer by Detroit will probably play with the Columbus team this summer.

Herman Long is glad to get into the American league, especially on account of the absence of the foul strike rule. He says that one rule was the greatest curse of his experience on the diamond. He is not the only player who thinks so.

There is likely to be a fight for the services of Pitcher Weldon Henly who was signed by Connie Mack several weeks ago. Manager Powell of the Atlantic club is said to have signed Henly, and, in addition to his contract, has a receipt for $300 advance money sent to him a month ago.

EAST END*AN END OF A NUISANCE

Arrest of East End Boys Likely to Stop Practice of Snow-balling.

The arrest of four East End boys for throwing snow balls has had a good effect and pedestrians can now pass along the streets in safety. The nuisance had grown to such a stage that it was practically unsafe for ladies and children to pass along the streets as the boys did not seem to care what kind of snow balls they threw or who they hit.

The officers had repeatedly warned the offenders but it apparently had but little effect, for as soon as the police were out of sight the boys would renew the bombardment on any and every person that came in sight. Several people have been painfully injured by being hit on the head with frozen balls, but as a usual thing they have had no recourse, as the offenders were usually boys whom they did not care to prosecute.

It is thought that the action of the police in bringing the four boys from the Horace Mann school to justice will end the nuisance in that part of the city for this winter at least.

CHILD STUNNED BY A SNOWBALL

It Contained a Stone in the Center And Injured Her Head Badly.

Bessie, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mercer, of the East End, met with an accident yesterday afternoon which might have resulted fatally.

While the little girl was passing along the street on her way to the East End school, some one struck her in the back of the head with a snow ball.

The snow ball, however, did not happen to be of the ordinary kind, but in it was imbedded a large stone which, striking the little girl with great force, knocked her down, stunning her and caused a deep and ugly gash in the back of her head. The wound bled profusely and it was necessary for a physician to put several stitches in the cut.

MI-O-NA A GUARANTEED CURE

Folly of Treating Dyspepsia With Pepson Tablets.

Mo-na is entirely different from other treatments for dyspepsia. The fact that it is sold by Will Reed, the popular druggist, under his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure dyspepsia and restore normal weight, shows that it possesses unusual merit.

Mo-na is not an ordinary laxative pill; it is not a digestive tablet composed of pepson or pancreatic; it is not a mere stimulant and tonic. Mo-na is a compressed food tablet that furnishes the constituents necessary to build up the system. It aids the food to assimilate and strengthens and regulates the digestive organs, enabling the body to gain in natural, healthy plumpness.

Austin Flint, M. D., Professor of Physiology in the Bellevue Hospital Medical college, New York city, one of the most eminent medical men in the country, says: "I have yet to see a single case in which any of the pepson, pancreatic or the physiologically absurd combinations of pepson and pancreatic seem to have produced any benefit, even of a temporary character."

This statement from a man of Dr. Flint's standing should convince any one of the folly of trying to cure diseases of the digestive organs by the ordinary dyspepsia tablets and powders. Mo-na gives quick relief and makes permanent cures. The best evidence that can be offered as to its superiority and its power to cure is the fact that Will Reed will return your money if Mo-na does not help you.

Rev. G. W. Orcutt, are meeting with great success and quite a number of conversions are reported. The congregation last night crowded the church to its utmost capacity and it was necessary to place chairs in the aisles so that everybody could be seated.

The services at the Second U. P. church under the direction of Rev. Mr. Duncan are meeting with equal success. A large congregation was in attendance last night to hear the eloquent speaker deliver a sermon on the subject of "Heaven And Hell." Rev. Mr. Duncan will conduct the services until Wednesday evening, when he will leave for his home at New Concord to conduct the funeral services over the remains of one of the leading members of his church. Rev. Mr. McQuiston will have charge of the services the balance of the week.

Preparations are now being made by Timmons & Co., of Philadelphia, who have the contract of grading 18 miles of the C. & P. for the new double-track, for the erection of several temporary buildings along the railroad between the East End and Smith's Ferry, in which the employees of the firm will live during the coming summer.

A representative of the company scoured the East End for vacant houses Monday, but there was none to be found, and the firm at once gave orders for the erection of the buildings, which will be erected at once.

BRILLIANT CONCERTS

By the Pittsburgh Orchestra to Be Given at Shenley Park This Week.

The twelfth set of concerts this season by the Pittsburgh orchestra Victor Herbert, conductor, will be given in Carnegie music hall, Sherley Park, evening, January 30, and Saturday afternoon, January 31, with Madame Schumann-Heink, contralto soloist. Mr. Herbert has prepared the following program:

Overture, "Leopold" No. 3, Beethoven Recit. "Jetzt, Vitella" and Ronde "Nie soll mit Rosen" from "Titus" Mozart Theme and Variations from Suite, Op. 55 Tchaikowsky Song of the Rhine Daughters from "Die Gotterdamerung" Wagner Act IV. of "The Prophet" Meyerbeer Suite "The Nations" Moszkowski Italian Spanish.

Schumann-Heink is in many respects the most notable guest of the Pittsburgh orchestra season. She is doing more work than ever before in New York at the Metropolitan opera house and always with an increasing circle of friends and admirers. She has the most unique place of any concert singer before the public. She sings an aria from an almost forgotten opera of Mozart, and the prison scene from the opera of "Titus," which opera was this year revived in New York because of her fitness for the part of Fidele. Schumann-Heink's interpretation of this part has a place by itself among the great impersonations of the generation.

There are only six more sets of concerts to be given this season, which promise to be more brilliant even than those of the early part of the season.

The customs congress of American republics is right in urging a series of reciprocity arrangements between the various countries of the continent. This was an idea which received a great deal of attention from Henry Clay. It was one of James G. Blaine's projects. Neither statesmen accomplished much in a practical way, although each made a beginning in his work. There is a chance here for some wise statesmanship on the part of congress in Washington. Manifestly, however, this is altogether too vast a question to be dealt with in the short time remaining of the life of the present congress.

At the Brunt pottery fire, it is reported, there were a number of well-disposed persons so willing to assist the firemen that they interfered seriously with the work of fighting the flames. Their orders to turn the water off and to turn it on were confusing and left the men manipulating the fire plugs at a complete loss what to do. People who rush to fires need to be taught that the issuing and execution of such orders can safely be left to the fire department officials, and the interference of any one else is not to be tolerated.

West Virginia has a good deal to be proud of, but her lynchings are a thing to make good citizens hang their heads in humiliation and regret. It is to be hoped that the latest display of the barbaric spirit, which took place not far from Charleston, where the legislature is in session, will cause the legislature to heed Gov. White's advice and enact laws that will prevent the recurrence of such melancholy and unnecessary infractions of the statutes by organized mobs.

The East Liverpool Elks are to be congratulated on the success of their exertions to give the people of this city a magnificent entertainment. Music lovers—a class very numerous in this city—have seldom had a richer treat brought to their very doors than that provided by the Pittsburg orchestra. The affair was well managed all through, and the public has reason to thank the Elks.

Rev. Dr. David Jones on Sunday uttered a popular sentiment when he pointed out East Liverpool's need of a hospital. His words should be heard and heeded. The coming summer should not be allowed to go by without seeing the building finished. The thing can be accomplished if the proper effort is put forth and the proper spirit of co-operation made manifest.

It is said that the big monopolists are reconciled to the enactment of the Knox anti-trust bill. Probably they accept this in order to head off something harsher. The chances are that their opposition in any case would not avail.

Governor Pennington asserts that his will not be a political administration. What a novelty Pennsylvania will have if he lives up to his promise!

The Kaiser may calm his war spirit, now that he is hearing from the rest of Europe.

The firemen did heroic service under great difficulty at the Brunt pottery fire.

This is a good time for the weather grumbler to take a rest.

OBITUARY

Mrs. J. Q. A. Miller.

Toronto, January 27.—Mrs. J. Q. A. Miller, wife of Rev. Mr. Miller, died Sunday morning, aged 64 years. Her maiden name was Jennie E. Crump, and she was born at Cochransville, Pa., on May 24, 1839, and was united in marriage to Rev. J. Q. A. Miller on February 7, 1856. She was a devout member of the Methodist Episcopal church all her life and was a most estimable Christian woman. She is survived by her husband and these children: Mayor C. E. Miller, Mrs. F. W. Pentland, of Toronto; H. D. Miller, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mrs. Lottie Herron, of Zanesville.

William R. Thompson.

William Ramsey Thompson, formerly of this city, died at his home, 5703 Rural avenue, East End, Pittsburgh, yesterday. Pneumonia caused death. He was born in Glen Falls, N. Y., and after a number of years' residence here removed to Pittsburgh, where he was manager of the Pittsburgh office of a well known insurance company. He leaves a widow and six children: Julia C., Florence M., George W., Harvey L. and Silas. He was a member of Alexander Hays post No. 3, G. A. R., and of the Sixth United Presbyterian church.

Leo Reinartz.

Rev. J. G. Reinartz, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church, yesterday received word from Germany of the death of his father, Leo Reinartz, at the age of 81 years. Rev. Mr. Reinartz last visited his father at home about two years ago. Mr. Reinartz was born in Aix la Chapelle, Germany, in 1821, and died there. He is survived by an only son, Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of this city, and a brother residing in Germany at the age of 101 years.

Harry Buckley.

Harry Buckley, aged three months died last evening at the home of his parents on Fenton street. The funeral services were held this afternoon at 4 o'clock and the interment was made in Spring Grove cemetery.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Closing Very Dull, but Firm at Top Prices—Bonds Were Dull and Heavy.

New York, Jan. 27.—The professional traders in stocks were in a more cheerful frame of mind yesterday and expressed relief over the good prospects reported for the settlement of the Venezuelan difficulty and the lifting of the blockade of the Venezuelan coast. There is no doubt that the state of irritation that has accompanied the blockade has been an influence toward depression in the financial world, but yesterday's market did not indicate conclusively that it was that done that withheld people from taking commitments in securities. The market had one or two spurts, when an appearance of considerable animation was imparted to the trading, but at other times the trading was actually stagnant.

Money on call steady at 3½@4 per cent, closing at 3½. Time money firm; 60 days, 4½@4½ per cent; 90 days, 4¾@5; six months, 5½@5½.

The large business in the country indicates a profitable use for money, which does not promise well for the addition of supplies available for speculative uses. The bond market gives equal evidence of the preference of capital for other forms of employment at this time. The closing was very dull, but firm, at about the ton.

fuel in the inflammable materials of the decorating department. It was impossible to gain a near approach to the flames in this department, as there are no windows through the north wall. The line from the Walnut street side could not be taken any great distance into the building on account of the smoke, and every few minutes the men in charge were compelled to return to the windows for fresh air.

At this time it seemed that the entire plant would be destroyed, as the flames had reached the rafters supporting the roof and were raging fiercely on all three floors. But the firemen redoubled their efforts and soon the spectators could see that they were preventing the flames from reaching other parts of the building. At 11 o'clock, two hours after the blaze was discovered, the firemen were masters of the situation. It had been one of the stubbornest and fiercest battles they had experienced in years.

The loss is estimated this morning to be about $32,000, most of which is to the stock stored in the first and second floors. There was also a large quantity of ware in the decorating department on the third floor. The walls are intact and the interior is damaged much less than was expected. The floor of the second story, except around the kilns, is in fairly good shape and the floor of the third story can easily be repaired. The decorating kilns do not appear to be badly damaged. The eastern end of the decorating department suffered the most damage on the third floor. In this section is located the sample room, which are practically ruined.

All departments at the pottery with the exception of the decorators went to work as usual this morning, and it is not likely that the work will stop at all if the insurance is promptly adjusted. The clay part, dipping department, green rooms, glaze and biscuit kiln sheds and a part of the glaze warehouse were not reached by the flames or damaged to any extent by the smoke and water.

It was stated at the office this morning that all the damage could be repaired in a brief time, possibly in a week. Men were at work this morning baling the water from around the decorating kilns.

The plant was fully insured in the agency of George H. Owen & Co.

Two Killed in Wreck.

Williamsport, Pa., Jan. 27.—Two men were killed and one fatally injured yesterday in a freight wreck which occurred on the Williamsport and North Branch railroad, near Satterfield, Sullivan county, a short distance from here. The dead are Edward Darling and Thomas Swank, brakemen. Herley Edkins, conductor, was pinned beneath the tender and had both legs broken. He was nearly frozen to death when rescued. He cannot recover. Engineer Siegleman and Lord Fairman, a brakeman, were also injured. The wreck was caused by an open switch. Conductor Edkins died after being rescued from the wreck.

The floor of the second story, except around the kilns, is in fairly good shape and the floor of the third story can easily be repaired. The decorative kilns do not appear to be badly damaged. The eastern end of the decorating department suffered the most damage on the third floor. In this section is located the sample room, which are practically ruined.

All departments at the pottery with the exception of the decorators went to work as usual this morning, and it is not likely that the work will stop at all if the insurance is promptly adjusted. The clay part, dipping department, green rooms, glaze and biscuit kiln sheds and a part of the glaze warehouse were not reached by the flames or damaged to any extent by the smoke and water.

It was stated at the office this morning that all the damage could be repaired in a brief time, possibly in a week. Men were at work this morning baling the water from around the decrating kilns.

The plant was fully insured in the agency of George H. Owen & Co.

The customs congress of American republics is right in urging a series of reciprocity arrangements between the various countries of the continent. This was an idea which received a great deal of attention from Henry Clay. It was one of James G. Blaine's projects. Neither statesmen accomplished much in a practical way, although each made beginning in his work. There is a chance here for some wise statesmanship on the part of congress in Washington. Manifestly, however, this is altogether too vast a question to be dealt with in the short time remaining of the life of the present congress.

At the Brunt pottery fire, it is reported, there were a number of well-disposed persons so willing to assist the firemen that they interfered seriously with the work of fighting the flames. Their orders to turn the water off and to turn it on were confusing and left the men manipulating the fire plugs at a complete loss what to do. People who rush to fires need to be taught that the issuing and execution of such orders can safely be left to the fire department officials, and the interference of any one else is not to be tolerated.

West Virginia has a good deal to be proud of, but her lynchings are a thing to make good citizens hang their heads in humiliation and regret. It is to be hoped that the latest display of the barbaric spirit, which took place not far from Charleston, where the legislature is in session, will cause the legislature to heed Gov. White's advice and enact laws that will prevent the recurrence of such melancholy and unnecessary infractions of the statutes by organized mobs.

The East Liverpool Elks are to be congratulated on the success of their exertions to give the people of this city a magnificent entertainment. Music lovers—a class very numerous in this city—have seldom had a richer treat brought to their very doors than that provided by the Pittsburgh orchestra. The affair was well managed all through, and the public has reason to thank the Elks.

OBITUARY

Mrs. J. Q. A. Miller.

Toronto, January 27.—Mrs. J. Q. A. Miller, wife of Rev. Mr. Miller, died Sunday morning, aged 64 years. Her maiden name was Jennie E. Crump, and she was born at Cochransville, Pa., on May 24, 1839, and was united in marriage to Rev. J. Q. A. Miller on February 7, 1856. She was a devoted member of the Methodist Episcopal church all her life and was a most estimable Christian woman. She is survived by her husband and these children: Mayor C. E. Miller, Mrs. F. W. Pentland, of Toronto; H. D. Miller, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mrs. Lottie Heron, of Zanesville.

William R. Thompson.

William Ramsey Thompson, formerly of this city, died at his home, 5762 Rural avenue, East End, Pittsburgh, yesterday. Pneumonia caused death. He was born in Glen Falls, N. Y., and after a number of years' residence here removed to Pittsburgh, where he was manager of the Pittsburgh office of a well known insurance company. He leaves a widow and six children: Julia C., Florence M., George W., Harvey L. and Silas. He was a member of Alexander Hays post No. 3, G. A. R., and of the Sixth United Presbyterian church.

Leo Reinartz.

Rev. J. G. Reinartz, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church, yesterday received word from Germany of the death of his father, Leo Reinartz, at the age of 81 years. Rev. Mr. Reinartz last visited his father at his home about two years ago. Mr. Reinartz was born in Aix la Chapelle, Germany, in 1821, and died there. He is survived by an only son, Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of this city, and a brother residing in Germany at the age of 101 years.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Closing Very Dull, but Firm at Top Prices—Bonds Were Dull and Heavy.

New York, Jan. 27.—The professional traders in stocks were in a more cheerful frame of mind yesterday and expressed relief over the good prospects reported for the settlement of the Venezuelan difficulty and the lifting of the blockade of the Venezuelan coast. There is no doubt that the state of irritation that has accompanied the blockade has been an influence toward depression in the financial world, but yesterday's market did not indicate conclusively that it was that alone that withheld people from taking commitments in securities. The market had one or two spurts, when an appearance of considerable animation was imparted to the trading, but at other times the trading was actually stagnant.

Money on call steady at 3½@4 per cent, closing at 3½. Time money firm; 60 days, 4½@4½ per cent; 90 days, 4½@5; six months, 5½@5½.

The large business in the country indicates a profitable use for money, which does not promise well for the addition of supplies available for speculative uses. The bond market gives equal evidence of the preference of capital for other forms of employment at this time. The closing was very dull, but firm, at about the ton.

fuel in the inflammable materials of the decorating department. It was impossible to gain a near approach to the flames in this department, as there are no windows through the north wall. The line from the Walnut street side could not be taken any great distance into the building on account of the smoke, and every few minutes the men in charge were compelled to return to the windows for fresh air.

At this time it seemed that the entire plant would be destroyed, as the flames had reached the rafters supporting the roof and were raging fiercely on all three floors. But the firemen redoubled their efforts and soon the spectators could see that they were preventing the flames from reaching other parts of the building. At 11 o'clock, two hours after the blaze was discovered, the firemen were masters of the situation. It had been one of the stubbornest and fiercest battles they had experienced in years.

The loss is estimated this morning to be about $32,000, most of which is to the stock stored in the first and second floors. There was also a large quantity of ware in the decorating department on the third floor. The walls are intact and the interior is damaged much less than was expected. The floor of the second story, except around the kilns, is in fairly good shape and the floor of the third story can easily be repaired. The decorative kilns do not appear to be badly damaged. The eastern end of the decorating department suffered the most damage on the third floor. In this section is located the sample room, which are practically ruined.

WELLSVILLE
LOSSES AND INSURANCE
IN THE WELLSVILLE FIRE

Judge Smith Will at Once Have the
Badly Wrecked Building
Reconstructed.

In a conversation held last evening between Judge P. M. Smith, the owner of the building which was destroyed by fire yesterday morning, and a reporter of this paper it was learned that Mr. Smith will start at once to reconstruct and remodel the remains of the building. The building will be reconstructed on the same plan it was before and the rooms in the building will probably be occupied by the same people.

The land on which the building stood, it has been learned, does not belong to Mr. Smith, but to the heirs of the entailed estate of Allen McDonald. Mr. Smith merely has a five-year lease on the land. Were it not for this fact, and had Mr. Smith owned the ground, he would have an excellent three-story brick building built.

Mr. Smith stated last evening that his insurance on the building alone amounted to $2,500. Of this $1,500 is with the Union Insurance company, of Philadelphia, and the balance of $1,000 is with the Richland Insurance company, of Mansfield, O. The total loss to the building amounted to $8,000, which shows Mr. Smith's actual loss to be about $5,500. This does not include his loss of a valuable law library and other office equipment.

C. V. Shoub, who aside from Mr. Smith was the heaviest loser, arrived in the city last evening from Alliance and after inspecting the remains of his store placed his loss at $6,000, although it is said to have amounted to somewhat more than this. Mr. Shoub has $4,050 insurance; $725 with the Home Insurance company, of New York; $1,200 with the Liverpool, London and Globe, of New York; $750 with the Insurance company of North America, of Philadelphia; $625 with the Providence Washington Insurance company, of Providence, R. I., and $750 with the Scottish Union and National Insurance company, of Edinburgh.

It is understood that M. E. Blackburn's stock was also covered by insurance, although the amount of the loss and the insurance cannot be learned. The loss at the Union Printing company is totally covered by insurance.

Local firemen who helped to fight the fire of yesterday say that it was one of the hardest fires to fight that has occurred in this city for many years.

Board of Education Holds a Meeting.
Need of New Organ

Pointed Out.

The regular meeting of the board of education was held here last evening at their office in the central building on Ninth street. President P. H. White presided and members Dr. Parks Rex, Dr. F. K. Hutcheson, W. F. Jones and A. G. MacKenzie were present. Prof. J. L. MacDonald was also present. The meeting was a very short one as there was but very little business to be transacted.

All of the outstanding bills were ordered paid, also the salaries for the teachers and janitors of the different buildings. A half dozen brushes were ordered by the board to be used by the janitors for cleaning their buildings.

When the superintendent's report was asked for, Prof. MacDonald stated that all of the teachers had not yet handed in their written reports for the month of December and that he was therefore unable to give a report as to the attendance and so forth last month. He reported, however, that everything was going along smoothly in the schools and all of the teachers were doing satisfactory work.

Mr. McDonald suggested to the board that an organ be purchased for the highest grade in the grammar school at the central building. He said that an organ was of great assistance to the scholars in their music and as this particular grade was really the preparatory step to entering the high school he believed that the room ought to be furnished with a musical instrument. The board seemed to favor the professor's suggestion and on motion the matter was left in the hands of the committee on cleaning and supplies and that committee will report at the next meeting. The board then adjourned.

HIS ADVENTURE WITH A MINER.

Startling Experience Among the Molly Maguires and With a Rockless Welshman in a Coal Mine. Story of an Expensive Mistake In Paris.

When the late Julian Ralph, the well known journalist, went to China, he prepared himself very carefully in pigeon English, which he had been told he would find useful. On discovering a Chinaman in his bedroom in Shanghai he exclaimed: "Hello! What ting? What fashion man you b'long? What side you come?" To which the Chinaman replied:

"This is Mr. Ralph, I presume? We have mutual friends who suggested my calling on you. Oh, that's all right," he went on. "I spent eight years at school in Norwich, Conn."

"Ah!" said Mr. Ralph, partially recovering his presence of mind. "Very well, very well."

To a correspondent of the New York Press Julian Ralph related this story of one of his experiences as a reporter:

"I remember the day," he said, "that took me over the mountain behind Mauch Chunk and into the house of the family of a Molly Maguire who had been hung the day before. In company with a New York Herald man I stood beside the felon's coffin. The whisky, the tobacco, the crooning women and the low browed conspirators and murderers who had been the man's friends were in the room. They asked us if we were reporters, and I said we were."

"They told us in the most extravagant politeness they could command to 'Git.' When they went out into the street, a reputable citizen called us into his store and told us that our presence in the village had led to a determination on the part of the Molly Maguires to kill us after sunset. It was almost sunset then. The necessity for getting our reports into New York was what impelled us to walk again the lonely path over the mountain. Still I am glad there was some other necessity.

Harry Price, of the West End, is carrying his left hand in a sling, the result of having two of his fingers mashed at the shops recently.

Mrs. Lockhart, of New Cumberland, W. Va., has returned to her home after spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Apple, of Main street.

C. P. Rothwell, the well known attorney, of East Palestine, who is running for the office of prosecuting attorney of the county, was in the city last evening.

Harry McBeth, of the C. & P. shops has resigned his position here. He left yesterday for Buffalo, N. Y., where he will accept a fine position in the Nickel Plate shops.

Miss Elizabeth Runyon, whose home is in this city, but who is employed in McDonald, Pa., was in the city Sunday and conducted the choir at the M. E. church. Miss Runyon will also be here next Sunday for the same purpose.

Rev. L. A. Upshaw, pastor of the Wellsburg A. M. E. church, left last evening for Steubenville, where for the balance of the week he will assist Rev. P. Alston, of the A. M. E. church, Steubenville, in holding revival meetings.

REVIVAL SERVICES

At the First M. E. Church Are Arousing Widespread Interest.

Rev. Dr. M. B. Pratt, who for some time has been having revival services at the First Methodist church, is receiving the hearty enthusiasm of the Christians throughout the city. So successful and interesting have been his meetings that there have been now over 100 conversions.

The co-operation of Dr. Pratt and the members of the church has been such that the evening services have been largely attended by those eager to hear the services which are doing others so much good.

The large choir under the direction of Prof. Phillips has also been contributing to the success of the revival services, and their music has received the appreciation of all.

vate right of way on the north side of Pennsylvania avenue, and there the road bed will be located. In this manner the use of the thoroughfare as a driveway will not be interfered with.

"Near the Hargreaves home stead it will cross Pennsylvania avenue, and this is the only spot on the street where the tracks will come in direct contact with the right of way. You will understand that this simply means the crossing of the street in the same manner that the East Liverpool line now crosses over intersections.

"We will construct a road bed upon the south side of the avenue from the Hargreaves property to the possessions of the Midway Land company, and through that tract on into the East End proper. For an eastern terminus it is the intention to at least go as far as Virginia avenue in the East End, which will tap the center of population in that district.

"The roadbed will be of the best, ballasted with broken stone, and the materials will be all new and of the most modern. It is our intention to either furnish a first class service or none at all. We are positive that when finished the equipment will be all that the people could ask.

"If the proper encouragement is given, the enterprise will not end with the building of the road just described, for there is not a locality in and about the city which we will not be willing to build to if the public want it."

A site has already been secured for a power house and car barns. These buildings will be fitted out with the very latest and most modern machinery and apparatus that money can buy. They will be complete in every detail, and will contain equipment of sufficient power to furnish electricity for all the suburban lines now in contemplation.

The tract purchased for barns and power house embraces two acres, and was secured from the owners of the Midway Land company. It lies between the proposed street railway line and the Pennsylvania railroad, fronting 280 feet on the latter.

LOSSES AND INSURANCE
IN THE WELLSVILLE FIREJudge Smith Will at Once Have the
Badly Wrecked Building
Reconstructed.

In a conversation held last evening between Judge P. M. Smith, the owner of the building which was destroyed by fire yesterday morning, and a reporter of this paper it was learned that Mr. Smith will start at once to reconstruct and remodel the remains of the building. The building will be reconstructed on the same plan it was before and the rooms in the building will probably be occupied by the same people.

The land on which the building stood, it has been learned, does not belong to Mr. Smith, but to the heirs of the entailed estate of Allen McDonald. Mr. Smith merely has a five-year lease on the land. Were it not for this fact, and had Mr. Smith owned the ground, he would have an excellent three-story brick building built.

Mr. Smith stated last evening that his insurance on the building alone amounted to $2,500. Of this $1,500 is with the Union Insurance company of Philadelphia, and the balance of $1,000 is with the Richland Insurance company of Mansfield, O. The total loss to the building amounted to $8,000, which shows Mr. Smith's actual loss to be about $5,500. This does not include his loss of a valuable law library and other office equipment.

C. V. Shoub, who aside from Mr. Smith, was the heaviest loser, arrived in the city last evening from Alliance and after inspecting the remains of his store placed his loss at $6,000, although it is said to have amounted to somewhat more than this. Mr. Shoub has $4,000 insurance; $725 with the Home Insurance company of New York; $1,200 with the Liverpool, London and Globe, of New York; $750 with the Insurance company of North America, of Philadelphia; $625 with the Providence Washington Insurance company, of Providence, R. I., and $750 with the Scottish Union and National Insurance company, of Edinburgh.

It is understood that M. E. Blackburn's stock was also covered by insurance, although the amount of the loss and the insurance cannot be learned. The loss at the Union Printing company is totally covered by insurance.

Local firemen who helped to fight the fire of yesterday say that it was one of the hardest fires to fight that has occurred in this city for many years.

Board of Education Holds a Meeting.
Need of New Organ
Pointed Out.

The regular meeting of the board of education was held here last evening at their office in the central building on Ninth street. President P. H. White presided and members Dr. Parks Rex, Dr. F. K. Hutchison, W. F. Lones and A. G. MacKenzie were present. Prof. J. L. MacDonald was also present. The meeting was a very short one, as there was but very little business to be transacted.

All of the outstanding bills were ordered paid, also the salaries for the teachers and janitors of the different buildings. A half dozen brushes were ordered by the board to be used by the janitors for cleaning their buildings.

When the superintendent's report was asked for, Prof. MacDonald stated that all of the teachers had not yet handed in their written reports for the month of December and that he was therefore unable to give a report as to the attendance and so forth last month. He reported, however, that everything was going along smoothly in the schools and all of the teachers were doing satisfactory work.

Mr. McDonald suggested to the board that an organ be purchased for the highest grade in the grammar school at the central building. He said that an organ was of great assistance to the scholars in their music and as this particular grade was really the preparatory step to entering the high school he believed that the room ought to be furnished with a musical instrument. The board seemed to favor the professor's suggestion and on motion the matter was left in the hands of the committee on cleaning and supplies and that committee will report at the next meeting. The board then adjourned.

JULIAN RALPH IN CHINA

Noted Journalist's Novel Meeting With a Celestial.

HIS ADVENTURE WITH A MINER.

Startling Experience Among the Molly Maguires and With a Reckless Welshman in a Coal Mine. Story of an Expensive Mistake In Paris.

When the late Julian Ralph, the well known journalist, went to China, he prepared himself very carefully in pigeon English, which he had been told he would find useful. On discovering a Chinaman in his bedroom in Shanghai he exclaimed: "Hello! What ting? What fashion man you b'long? What side you come?" To which the Chinaman replied:

"This is Mr. Ralph, I presume? We have mutual friends who suggested my calling on you. Oh, that's all right," he went on. "I spent eight years at school in Norwich, Conn."

"Ah!" said Mr. Ralph, partially recovering his presence of mind. "Very well, very well."

To a correspondent of the New York Press Julian Ralph related this story of one of his experiences as a reporter: "I remember the day," he said, "that took me over the mountain behind Mauch Chunk and into the house of the family of a Molly Maguire who had been hung the day before. In company with a New York Herald man I stood beside the felon's coffin. The whisky, the tobacco, the crooning women and the low browed conspirators and murderers who had been the man's friends were in the room. They asked us if we were reporters, and I said we were."

"They told us in the most extravagant politeness they could command to 'Git.' When they went out into the street, a reputable citizen called us into his store and told us that our presence in the village had led to a determination on the part of the Molly Maguires to kill us after sunset. It was almost sunset then. The necessity for getting our reports into New York was what impelled us to walk again the lonely path over the mountain. Still, I am glad there was some other necessity.

"Reaching the largest coal mine in the United States, at Pottsville, after an explosion that had robbed many families of their heads, I tried to obtain permission to enter the mine. The owners said that it was certain death to go into it and I would not be permitted to do so. I paid a poor Welshman $5 to take me secretly down the shaft, and he and I spent an afternoon in the bowels of the earth. There would not have been anything very desperate about that but for the ignorance and recklessness of my Welshman—the same sort of ignorance and recklessness that had blown up that mine and has blown up a hundred others."

"He got to telling me about the 'brownies' that live in the mine. Queer little pygmies he said they were, not much bigger than your hand, clothed all in brown, wearing feathers in their hats and always appearing to a miner when something dreadful is about to happen to the mine or to the individual. He said that as he was at work in a blind shaft on the day of the explosion he heard a Lilliputian chattering and looking up, saw a brownie four inches high standing in a crevice in a coal vein and holding up a warning finger."

"My Welshman had a naked lamp in his hand, and suddenly he raised it and thrust it in a cranny over my head, with the remark, 'The brownies do live in all such cracks as that.' When you know that I had been warned that if the flame of a lamp touched any of the crevices of the rocks wherein gas was still certain to be lurking another frightful explosion would occur, you can imagine my feelings as I seized that man's arm and pulled it down half a minute after the flame had penetrated that hiding place of the fatal fluid."

The co-operation of Dr. Pratt and the members of the church has been such that the evening services have been largely attended by those eager to hear the services which are doing others so much good.

The large choir under the direction of Prof. Phillips has also been contributing to the success of the revival services, and their music has received the appreciation of all.

A site has already been secured for a power house and car barns. These buildings will be fitted out with the very latest and most modern machinery and apparatus that money can buy. They will be complete in every detail, and will contain equipment of sufficient power to furnish electricity for all the suburban lines now in contemplation.

The tract purchased for barns and power house embraces two acres, and was secured from the owners of the Midway Land company. It lies between the proposed street railway line and the Pennsylvania railroad, fronting 280 feet on the latter.

The members of the company who will build the railway line have their plans under way, and every move has been carefully made. None of the arrangements, however, have reached a point where the company is ready to go before the city council, and no overtures will be made at the meeting tonight. When it is decided to enlist the co-operation of that body, the assurance has been given that the new enterprise will be given all the support and encouragement it desires.

SENATOR W. V. BLAKE NOT A CANDIDATE

Is Not in the Race for Representative. But Is for the Nominee.

In spite of the fact that his friends have been urging him for some time to make the move, and at several intervals had almost succeeded in persuading him to do so, Senator W. V. Blake today told a News Review reporter that he was not a candidate for the Republican nomination for representative.

Senator Blake states that he will support the home candidate, and believes he will be the party nominee.

"The railroad will be of the best, ballasted with broken stone, and the materials will be all new and of the most modern. It is our intention to either furnish a first class service or none at all. We are positive that when finished the equipment will be all that the people could ask.

"If the proper encouragement is given, the enterprise will not end with the building of the road just described, for there is not a locality in and about the city which we will not be willing to build to if the public wants it."

A site has already been secured for a power house and car barns. These buildings will be fitted out with the very latest and most modern machinery and apparatus that money can buy. They will be complete in every detail, and will contain equipment of sufficient power to furnish electricity for all the suburban lines now in contemplation.

The tract purchased for barns and power house embraces two acres, and was secured from the owners of the Midway Land company. It lies between the proposed street railway line and the Pennsylvania railroad, fronting 280 feet on the latter.

The members of the company who will build the railway line have their plans under way, and every move has

CONFISCATING TIME.

This Is the Charge Made by Senator Hale Against Mr. Quay.

STATEHOOD BILL HOLDS FORT.

House Makes New Record by Passing Military Academy Bill Without a Single Word of Debate—Sensation in Lesser Bribery Hearing.

Washington, Jan. 27.—In the senate yesterday Mr. Quay, in charge of the omnibus statehood bill, insisted on its consideration to the exclusion of other business. When Senator Platt, of New York, attempted to call up a committee report providing for the printing of a document Mr. Quay objected. Mr. Hale thereupon declared that Mr. Quay was confiscating the time of the senate. The latter replied calmly that this could be obviated by allowing a vote on the statehood bill. A resolution of Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, questioning the credentials of Dr. Herran, the Colombian chargé d'affaires, who signed with Secretary Hay the canal treaty, caused the senate to go into a long executive session. At its conclusion the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill was passed. The Lodge amendment providing for a reorganization of the consular service was ruled out of order and debate thereby cut off.

At 4:30 p. m. the senate adjourned until today.

In the House.

The house yesterday made a new record in the matter of appropriation bills. The military academy bill was passed without a single word of debate. The Indian bill, which followed, was not completed yesterday, as Mr. Burton (Rep., O.) made a long speech on it in general criticism of the policy of the government toward the Indians. A resolution was adopted calling on the postmaster general for the correspondence in the Indianapolis Miss. postoffice case.

The house at 5:20 p. m. adjourned.

Lesser Investigation.

Philip Doblin, who testified before the house committee on naval affairs Saturday that he had approached Representative Lesser, of New York, with an offer of money to influence his vote on the submarine boat bill, and who made the further statement that he had been told there might be $1,000 in it for him, made the astounding statement before that committee yesterday that he had made statements Saturday which were not true and that he wanted to retract his statement that Mr. Quigg had tendered a bribe to him.

The statement came without any previous warning that Doblin intended making any such retraction. Members of the committee looked at each other in amazement as Doblin went on with his statement.

Denied Previous Statements.

Gustavus Rogers, an attorney, arose in the committee room after the first witness had left the stand yesterday morning and said that he appeared for Mr. Doblin, who had stated to him that he (Doblin) had made some statements Saturday which were true and some which were false, and held in his hand a statement to which Mr. Doblin had sworn. The committee was unanimous in agreeing that Doblin appear in person forthwith. He was called and made specific denial of all statements he had previously made wherein he alleged attempts at bribery. He was rigidly cross-examined by practically every member of the committee and pressed vigorously for explanation of his action of yesterday, but persisted that he told the truth yesterday and adhered to his denials. When Doblin had left the stand the committee's program, which contemplated calling Dr. W. R. Kerr to the stand, was abandoned, and it went into secret session. Some of the members, in view of the remarkable developments, favored dropping the investigation, but others urged that it be continued. It is understood that Mr. Lesser asked that he be permitted to make a statement, and said that he had another witness he would call, whereupon the committee decided to meet again at 10:30 today.

Representative Lesser was present in the committee room when Doblin gave his testimony.

May Come Up Again.

It was stated last night that Philip Doblin, the witness who yesterday retracted his previous testimony before the house naval affairs committee, investigating the Lesser submarine torpedo boat charges, had left the city for New York. The admissions made by Mr. Doblin were discussed informally by the committee yesterday, with a view to determining if any action should be taken in the case. Some of the members expressed the opinion that this should be done, while others were disposed to let the matter drop. No positive determination was reached, but it is probable the matter may come up for future consideration.

Loss $490,000.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—The large department store of A. Lederer & Co., occupying nearly the entire block between Sixty-second and Sixty-third streets, on Halsted street, was damaged by fire yesterday to the extent of $490,000. Nearly the entire loss was on the stock. The store was crowded with shoppers when the alarm was given, but all had ample time to make their escape.

WANT A LARGE DEFENSE FUND.

Will Continue 10 Cents Per Month Assessment for Another Year—At President's Suggestion May Make Initiation Fee for Boys Prohibitive.

Love is unequally yoked with sickness. Labor is lightened by love, but love cannot lighten pain or relieve it. Many a man looks on at his wife's suffering willing to do anything to aid her and able to do nothing.

Sometimes, however, the husband's attention is directed to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and its remarkable cures of womanly diseases. He may not have much hope of a cure, but he is led to try the medicine, with the result that in almost every case there is a perfect and permanent cure.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures irregularity. It dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

As a tonic for women who are nervous, sleepless, worn-out and run-down "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled.

"In answer to your letter I will say, my wife commenced to complain twenty years ago," writes Lewis A. C. of Toledo, Ohio. "We have tried the aid of twelve different doctors. She took gallons of medicine during the time she was ill, until I wrote to you and sent you a wire to do. She has taken eight bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and six of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' She can do her own work now and can walk around again and is quite smart."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

COUNTY AND NEIGHBORHOOD

B. W. Meltonberger's livery stable at Steubenville burned. Loss, $6,000.

The handsome M. E. church of New Martinsville, W. Va., the finest in the town, was burned. Loss, $20,000.

Lewis Ash, an aged colored man of West Bridgewater, Pa., was struck by an engine and perhaps fatally injured.

The Ohio Dairymen's association meets at Columbus, February 12 and 13. A rate of a fare and one-third has been granted by the railroads.

Michael McTaggart, John Mossap and Patrick Fitzsimmons were declared elected auditors and Joseph Pope, Reese Bennett and John C. Heenan alternates.

Recommended Large Defense Fund.

The special committee on defense fund, appointed at the suggestion of President Mitchell, recommended the establishment of a large defense fund but did not deem it advisable at this time to establish a national defense fund.

Owing to the unorganized condition of the miners in many of the districts it was thought best to continue the 10 cents per month assessment for another year. The committee advocated that each district accumulate and maintain a fund until it become sufficiently large to meet any claim.

The report of the special committee on injunction went into the history of the operation of injunctions and after showing the great abuses to which the injunction had contributed, recommended that President Mitchell appoint a committee of two to go to Washington at once and use its influence to secure the passage of the anti-injunction bill (house bill No. 11,360). The special committee is also instructed to get the record of every senator and representative on the bill.

Sugested Many Changes.

The report of the committee on legislation suggested many changes, the most important of which was a change in the voting representation of the districts so far as the power to inaugurate a general suspension of work is concerned. Heretofore every district has had one vote in such matters, irrespective of its size, and two-fifths of the districts could vote to suspend work in all of the districts. Under the amendment adopted there shall be one vote for every 200 members of the district or fraction of that number. It will be possible for each district board member to vote only according to the size of his district. Under the new order it will require about three-fourths of the districts to order a general strike.

The report of the special committee on injunction went into the history of the operation of injunctions and after showing the great abuses to which the injunction had contributed, recommended that President Mitchell appoint a committee of two to go to Washington at once and use its influence to secure the passage of the anti-injunction bill (house bill No. 11,360).

The special committee is also instructed to get the record of every senator and representative on the bill.

Dislocated Her Shoulder.

Mrs. Johanna Soderholm, of Ferguson, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised for sprains and soreness, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep which she had not done for several days. The son was so much pleased with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others.

For the Farmer, thousands of acres of rich agricultural land.

For the Stock Raiser, immense areas of excellent grazing land.

For the Miner, the great mineral deposit in the west.

For the Homeseeker, millions of acres of land under irrigation, while but little is yet under actual cultivation.

The report was adopted.

President Mitchell said: "You have made provision for the membership in the organization of boys between the ages of 14 and 16 years. It seems to me that you ought to make some provision for boys under 14 years of age who work in our mines. For my part, I do not believe they should be allowed to work at all."

Prohibitive Initiation Fee.

Following the suggestion of President Mitchell, Delegate Ray Hudson offered an amendment that boys under the age of 14 years be charged $25 initiation fee in order to make it prohibitive. The entire matter was finally referred to the different districts. The time for closing the books of the organization was changed to Nov. 30.

The tellers for the annual election, which have been provided for by the convention, were added to the list of elective officers and the date of casting the referendum vote was changed from the first to the second week of December.

A recommendation that checkweighmen employed by miners must be members of the United Mine Workers for three months and must be elected by the organization, and that no person shall have a vote unless he assists in maintaining the weighmen, was adopted.

The committee decided that the matter of taking the big clay miners into the organization be referred to the American Federation of Labor next year, and the action was concurred in.

ANTHRACITE STRIKE HEARING.

Attention of Commission Directed to Claims and Charges of Independent Operators.

Philadelphia, Jan. 27.—The attention of the tellers on the recent election of national officers of the United Mine Workers by the recently taken referendum vote was made yesterday, showing that John Mitchell, who had no opposition for president, received 55,032 votes, and W. B. Wilson, who had no opposition for secretary-treasurer, received 50,125 votes. Vice President T. L. Lewis, of Ohio, was re-elected over T. D. Nichols, of Pennsylvania, by a vote of 39,633 to 17,249.

The election of delegates to the American Federation of Labor resulted in the selection of John Mitchell, W. B. Wilson, T. L. Lewis, W. D. Schuyler, of Illinois; John Fahey, of Schuyler; W. H. Haskins, of Ohio, and John Dempsey, of Pennsylvania.

The alternates are W. R. Fratley, of Ohio; Paul Plaski, of Pennsylvania; G. W. Purcell, of Indiana; Chris Evans, of Ohio; G. W. Savage, of Ohio; J. H. Kennedy, of Indiana, and D. P. Sullivan, of Ohio.

Michael McTaggart, John Mossap and Patrick Fitzsimmons were declared elected auditors and Joseph Pope, Reese Bennett and John C. Heenan alternates.

Recommended Large Defense Fund.

The special committee on defense fund, appointed at the suggestion of President Mitchell, recommended the establishment of a large defense fund, but did not deem it advisable at this time to establish a national defense fund.

Owing to the unorganized condition of the miners in many of the districts it was thought best to continue the 10 cents per month assessment for another year. The committee advocated that each district accumulate and maintain a fund until it became sufficiently large to meet any emergency.

Frank Martin was a good witness for the company. She told of the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Miller to properly care for the sick employees and stated that where cases of necessity were discovered patients were furnished with medicines and nourishing food free of charge.

Frank Martin described the operations of the "credit" or company store system. The prices of articles, he said, were about the same as those charged by other dealers, but admitted that none other than employees of the company were given credit. He stated also that after the company store system had been abolished he had resorted to the cash basis he lost two-thirds of his custom.

Samuel Dickson, counsel for the injunction, went into the history of the operation of injunctions and after showing the great abuses to which the injunction had contributed, recommended that President Mitchell appoint a committee of two to go to Washington at once and use its influence to secure the passage of the anti-injunction bill (house bill No. 11,360). The special committee is also instructed to get the record of every senator and representative on the bill.

Suggested Many Changes.

The report of the committee on legislation suggested many changes, the most important of which was a change in the voting representation of the districts so far as the power to inaugurate a general suspension of work is concerned. Heretofore every district has had one vote in such matters, irrespective of its size, and two-fifths of the districts could vote to suspend work in all of the districts. Under the amendment adopted there shall be one vote for every 200 members of the district or fraction of that number. It will be possible for each district board member to vote only according to the size of his district. Under the new order it will require about three-fourths of the districts to order a general strike.

The committee reported an amendment to make the initiation fee a uniform one of $10 in all of the districts and giving the president power to grant a dispensation for a smaller initiation fee where necessary.

The same amendment also recommended that the top and bottom men shall pay the same as experienced men and that boys between 14 and 16 years pay a $2.50 initiation fee. The report was adopted.

President Mitchell said: "You have made provision for the membership in the organization of boys between the ages of 14 and 16 years. It seems to me that you ought to make some provision for boys under 14 years of age who work in our mines. For my part, I do not believe they should be allowed to work at all."

Prohibitive Initiation Fee.

Following the suggestion of President Mitchell, Delegate Ray Hudson offered an amendment that boys under the age of 14 years be charged a $25 initiation fee in order to make it prohibitory. The entire matter was finally referred to the different districts. The time for closing the books of the organization was changed to Nov. 30.

The tellers for the annual election, which have been provided for by the convention, were added to the list of elective officers and the date of casting the referendum vote was changed from the first to the second week of December.

A recommendation that check-weightmen employed by miners must be members of the United Mine Workers for three months and must be elected by the organization, and that no person shall have a vote unless he assists in maintaining the weighman, was adopted.

The committee decided that the matter of taking the big clay miners into the organization be referred to the American Federation of Labor next year, and the action was carried in.

ITALY IS EAGER TO WITHDRAW.

Minister Bowen at a Late Hour Last Night Had Not Received Answers from the Powers in Reply to His Proposal for Adjustment.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Orders have been sent from Rome to the commanders of the Italian warships in Venezuelan waters, directing them to raise the blockade the instant the English and German fleets do so. This shows plainly that Italy not only herself favors the peaceable settlement which will avoid possible rupture of the cordial relations with the United States which have been strengthened by the Italian ambassador at Washington, but that she is convinced her two allies will also lift the blockade. Such orders would hardly be issued unless the raising of the blockade was regarded in Rome as certain and Italy eager to withdraw from the blockading fleet as soon as possible.

Count Quadt Calls on President.

Count Quadt, the German chargé d'affaires ad interim, called on President Roosevelt at the White House between 12 and 1 o'clock yesterday, ostensibly to present a kinsman, the son of Prince Quadt and the new German military attaché, Major Etzel. It is understood, however, that he delivered an informal message from Emperor William to the president, which bore on the Venezuelan situation, an!

which was favorable in tone, and to make nearly positive the feeling in the inner administration circle that the Venezuelan situation will soon come to an amicable and satisfactory settlement.

Mr. Bowen, Venezuelan envoy, had at a late hour last night not received answers from the powers in reply to his proposal for settlement. It is expected that these replies will be forthcoming within 24 hours and will be followed quickly by the raising of the blockade, which in turn will be followed by the immediate negotiations for adjustment.

CONFISCATING TIME.

This Is the Charge Made by Senator Hale Against Mr. Quay.

STATEHOOD BILL HOLDS FORT.

House Makes New Record by Passing Military Academy Bill Without a Single Word of Debate—Senate in Lesser Bribery Hearing.

Washington, Jan. 27.—In the senate yesterday Mr. Quay, in charge of the omnibus statehood bill, insisted on its consideration to the exclusion of other business. When Senator Platt, of New York, attempted to call up a committee report providing for the printing of document Mr. Quay objected. Mr. Hale thereupon declared that Mr. Quay was confiscating the time of the senate. The latter replied calmly that this could be obviated by allowing a vote on the statehood bill. A resolution of Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, questioning the credentials of Dr. Herran, the Colombian chargé d'affaires, who signed with Secretary Hay the canal treaty, caused the senate to go into a long executive session. At its conclusion the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill was passed. The Lodge amendment providing for a reorganization of the consular service was ruled out of order and debate thereby cut off.

At 4:30 p. m. the senate adjourned until today.

In the House.

The house yesterday made a new record in the matter of appropriation bills. The military academy bill was passed without a single word of debate.

The Indian bill, which followed, was not completed yesterday, as Mr. Burton (Rep., O.) made a long speech on it in general criticism of the policy of the government toward the Indians. A resolution was adopted calling on the postmaster general for the correspondence in the Indianapolis Miss. postoffice case.

The house at 5:20 p. m. adjourned.

Lessor Investigation.

Philip Dobbin, who testified before the house committee on naval affairs Saturday that he had approached Representative Lessor, of New York, with an offer of money to influence his vote on the submarine boat bill, and who made the further statement that he had been told there might be $1,000 in it for him, made the astounding statement before that committee yesterday that he had made statements Saturday which were not true and that he wanted to retract his statement that Mr. Quigg had tendered a bribe to him.

The statement came without any previous warning that Dobbin intended making any such retraction. Members of the committee looked at each other in amazement as Dobbin went on with his statement.

Denied Previous Statements.

Gustavus Rogers, an attorney, arose from the committee room after the first witness had left the stand yesterday morning and said that he appeared for Mr. Dobbin, who had stated to him that he (Dobbin) had made some statements Saturday which were true and some which were false, and held in his hand a statement to which Mr. Dobbin had sworn. The committee was unanimous in agreeing that Dobbin appear in person forthwith. He was called and made specific denial of all statements he had previously made wherein he alleged attempts at bribery. He was rigidly cross-examined by practically every member of the committee and pressed vigorously for explanation of his action of yesterday, but persisted that he told the truth yesterday and adhered to his denials. When Dobbin had left the stand the committee's program, which contemplated calling Dr. W. R. Kerr to the stand, was abandoned, and it went into secret session. Some of the members, in view of the remarkable developments, favored dropping the investigation, but others urged that it be continued. It is understood that Mr. Lessor asked that he be permitted to make a statement, and said that he had another witness he would call, whereupon the committee decided to meet again at 10:30 today.

Representative Lessor was present in the committee room when Dobbin gave his testimony.

May Come Up Again.

It was stated last night that Philip Dobbin, the witness who yesterday retracted his previous testimony before the house naval affairs committee, investigating the Lessor submarine torpedo boat charges, had left the city for New York. The admissions made by Mr. Dobbin were discussed informally by the committee yesterday, with a view to determining if any action should be taken in the case. Some of the members expressed the opinion that this should be done, while others were disposed to let the matter drop. No positive determination was reached, but it is probable the matter may come up for future consideration.

Loss $490,000.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—The large department store of A. Lederer & Co., occupying nearly the entire block between Sixty-second and Sixty-third streets, on Halsted street, was damaged by fire yesterday to the extent of $400,000. Nearly the entire loss was on the stock. The store was crowded with choppers when the alarm was given, but all had ample time to make their escape.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures irregularity. It dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

As a tonic for women who are nervous, sleepless, worn-out and run-down "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled. Since I wrote to you and told us what to do, she has taken eight bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription." She can do her own work now and can walk around again and is quite smart!

Dislocated Her Shoulder.

Mrs. Johanna Soderholm, of Fergus Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised for sprains and soreness, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep which she had not done for several days. The son was so much pleased with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

ITALY IS EAGER TO WITHDRAW.

Samuel Dickson, counsel for the company, sprung a surprise upon the opposing counsel at the morning session by requesting the commission to summon to the stand D. J. McCarthy, of Hazleton, one of the miners' attorneys. Mr. Dickson stated that he desired to question Mr. McCarthy concerning the evictions made by the Marksle company and also regarding a statement he had made before the commission at Scranton. Mr. McCarthy demurred for the reason that whatever knowledge he might possess as to the evictions was given him as counsel of the former tenants. Upon Mr. Dickson's assurances that he would not attempt to lead the witness into any unprofessional act or statement Mr. McCarthy took the stand and gave the desired information.

On February 4 the Washington branch of the Western Reserve alumni, of which Representative Robert W. Taylor, of Lisbon, is president, will have a banquet at Parlow's hotel. President Thwing, of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, is expected to be present.

Suggested Many Changes.

The report of the committee on legislation suggested many changes, the most important of which was a change in the voting representation of the districts so far as the power of the operation of injunctions and after showing the great abuses to which the injunction had contributed, recommended that President Mitchell appoint a committee of two to go to Washington at once and use its influence to secure the passage of the anti-injunction bill (house bill No. 11,360). The special committee is also instructed to get the record of every senator and representative on the bill.

Last Honors to Deitsch.

Cincinnati, Jan. 27.—The funeral of Colonel Philip Deitsch, late superintendent of police, was held yesterday, and was one of the most notable in the history of the city. For four hours a steady stream of citizens of all classes and professions poured through the Scottish Rite cathedral at a rapid rate to take a last look at his remains. At 2 o'clock the impressive funeral ceremony of the Masonic fraternity were held, with the auditorium crowded and a dense throng in the street unable to gain admittance. The remains were escorted to the cemetery by a large body of police and by a detachment of the First regiment, Ohio national guard.

Stolen Securities Recovered.

St. Louis, Jan. 27.—It is reported from Stanton, Mo., that securities to the amount of $90,000 were recovered yesterday from the house of Frank Rudolph by a party of detectives. These securities were part of the loot of the bank of Union, Mo., which was robbed two days after Christmas, when money and valuable papers amounting to nearly $120,000 were taken. William Anderson, or Rudolph, and Frank Lewis, the supposed robbers and murderers of detective Charles J. Schumacher are still at large. A reward of $1,000 has been offered for their arrest.

Prohibitory Initiation Fee.

Following the suggestion of President Mitchell, Delegate Ray Hudson offered an amendment that boys under the age of 14 years be charged a $25 initiation fee in order to make it prohibitory. ### Fort Not Seriously Damaged.

Maracaibo, Jan. 27.—Fort San Carlos, at the entrance of Lake Maracaibo, has not suffered serious damages, except on the side facing the sea, from the bombardment by the German warships.

General Bello declares that the fort is still able to repel any attack by the Germans. This description of the condition of the fort is corroborated by a foreigner, who has just returned here from an inspection of the fort.

Vetoed Ordinance.

Cleveland, Jan. 27.—Mayor Johnson vetoed the ordinance passed by the council last night granting members of the police force a 6 per cent advance in their salaries. The mayor gave as a reason that instead of more money for the present force the expenditure of any additional funds for police should be to increase the number of men. The mayor was present at the council meeting and announced his disapproval of the measure immediately.

Secured Their Promises.

Toledo, Jan. 27.—Customs Collector J. C. # Paris Fashions as Seen In the Throngs at Nice

PARIS, Jan. 3.—I have just come back from the gay Riviera capital, where all Paris seemed to be assembled. Nice, always smart and fascinating, was looking her best. There were much life and movement of well horsed carriages and of the ubiquitous motor vehicles and of the noble avenues of trees, wherein the russet foliage still hung. The shops, to rival which one must seek the Rue de la Paix, were dazzling with beautiful wares. They seemed to display the wealth of Golconde in jewels, furs, dresses, hats, art curios and lace. The flower shops were intoxicating with scent and color from myriads of roses, lilies, violets and other blossoms. The new golf links just completed will prove of immense added interest to Nice. The links and greens are first rate and command a splendid view of snow capped mountains and the sunlit bay. A good winter programme was shown at the opera house, and smart men and women are to be seen there every night, going later to the casino and fashionable restaurants.

Every morning the promenades are thronged with stunningly gowned pedestrians, for let it be known that walking, the simple, old fashioned mode of locomotion, is now considered the great remedy for the evils accompanying a superabundance of flesh. In other words, we are recommended to walk, and to walk fast, if we would retain our slim figures. And the costume required to aid us in our unaccustomed exercise needs due consideration. We must discard the fur lined suit, as it is not within reach of all, and speak of practical possibilities. We will leave aside the question of under-wear and attack the coat and skirt.

The skirt must be short, without compromise. It must just escape the boot and be of equal length at back, front and sides. The coat reaches no farther than the waist and is made of fur, in preference a dark fur in harmony with the skirt. With a touch of color in the hat and in the lining of the muff, we may hope to look well while taking our constitutional.

The newest coat seen was the astrakhan blouse bolero slightly pouched over a band of black velvet at the waist. It has no collar, but the neck is outlined with a black velvet band embroidered in red and dark green silks. The same band finishes the wide bishop sleeve, and the style is very good. With an astrakhan blouse and a shawl or Persia hat, one has a toilet which makes life worth living and will be correct for walking anywhere. For theater and restaurant dining the high neck gown is now worn, but in its material and general fashioning the difference between this and an evening frock lies only in the fact that the bodice is high. The most economical materials for dinner dresses are silk, satin and panne. Any one of these will outwear several gowns composed of lighter fabrics. Black is always smart, particularly when relieved with a wide bertha and trimmings of good lace.

In most instances gowns are adorned with several different kinds of lace, possibly Irish crochet, filet and guipure. Girls look charming in black provided they are not too thin. Always remember that black accentuates thinness. White is also trying. In these matters you must use your own discretion. Most of us, on a limited dress allowance, have to invest in one black frock, whether it suits us or not, of time on—namely, her corsets, head-

simply because it is so useful for a hundred and one occasions. It always looks smart, and in it one never appears overdressed. Chiffon voile is the new fabric for ball gowns and will be much used this year. It has the airy, fairy appearance of chiffon and yet gear and boots. Once she has these important accessories correct she will find it wonderfully easy to appear well dressed. It was quite another matter in the days of tightly boned bodices, but now a graceful and elegant figure can wear the simplest shifts and dresses.

street wear. Such extravagances should be relegated entirely to those who are fortunate enough to own carriages. On the other hand, at a smart "at home" or reception there is nothing handsomer than a white frock, provided it is toned down with mink or sable.

I saw a beautiful frock composed of cream colored crochet over finely plaited crepe de chine in a deep shade of ivory. The bodice seemed to be an inner blouse of accordian plaited crepe de chine, with a loose hanging sack of the coarse crochet lace and a wide band of cream panne. The only color introduced was in a large cluster of parma violets and dark red roses—real ones, by the way—which never seem out of place.

Two lovely voile toilets worn at Nice

The second model was in dove colored silk voile over a shot mauve taffeta. The guipure collar, edged with a narrow band of fur, opened in front over a white velvet plastron strapped by bands of black velvet ribbon. A narrow plaiting of voile fashioned in bolero effect displayed the blouse of mauve taffeta beneath. The plaited skirt was broken on either side by inset incrustations of embroidery and guipure with mauve taffeta ruchings. A long, loose wrap lined with ermine and mousqueline plisse completed a becoming ensemble.

John Chapman is exercising a powerful influence on western peoples. We are borrowing his coat for our cloaks and his sleeve bands for the decoration of our boudoirs, and, to cap the climax, silk work—all are in vogue. It matters little whether the stitching is coarse or fine, whether it recalls the Bayeux tapestry or the fine roses of China which look as if they were painted. They copy nature's work, but they do not follow nature faithfully in the east. Birds and flowers alike are conventionalized, and rules of drawing are ignored. Fashions come and go, but these embroideries are always in vogue and have been for centuries. They are so thoroughly and well wrought that they do not deteriorate. Until the last few years Chinese embroidery had been employed as household furnishings rather than on dress, but we are now placing it on effective backgrounds and using it for entire robes and for evening cloaks.

For these effects I think there is no groundwork like black crepe de chine. The long, loose stitched work in white now so much in vogue is devoted principally to cloth materials. We are using medallions of embroidery on many fabrics, and we are brightening up our dark winter gowns with collars and vests worked in colored silk.

Marrying and giving in marriage are always before us. An acceptable novelty is the picture wedding, where the bride, bridesmaids and near relatives wear dresses inspired by old pictures. The lace trains are so arranged on the bodice as to form fichus. White satin empire gowns are in favor for attendants, and the guests are wearing a great deal of velvet covered with lace. These gowns often have slashings or satin about the sleeves and bodice after the Tudor style.

A fad for lace which matches the gown in color is one of the eccentricities of the hour. I hardly think it a pretty idea; still some of the heavy yak laces take to the dye very successfully. Another "faddy" idea is that the frock must match one's mood. Our notions of moods are so varied that black for the dumps and red when one is feeling particularly gay are the only general rule for a guide.

Simple little tricks of the needle continue to play a very pretty part in blouses and frocks—for example, instead of a lace yoke a crepe de chine blouse will have the openwork effect contrived by coarse silk veining—really herringbone stitch—with the rouleau twirled into all kinds of decorative ideas.

I was told the other day that a dainty, fine woolen canvas is the coming material for shirt waists. The shops, I trust, will be able to get skirt lengths, as I can imagine very nice spring shirt waist dresses being made from this canvas. "Sufficient," though, "unto the day," for Dame Fashion will certainly look out for her own in the coming materials.

The Flounce Growing In Importance

Flounces are growing in fussiness and importance day by day, especially where evening exigencies are concerned. A charming creation suitable to a fair debutante was arranged in delicate pink chiffon, its trained skirt decked with three frourou flounces, each one whereof was studded with narrow ribbons and lace. The bebe bodice was finished by a pointed pelering of the chiffon, dotted with diamante and hemmed lace, and bore elbow sleeves with handkerchief wing frills at their base.

I had severe attacks of kidney complaint. Some times I was so bad I could not get up; many times my neighbors came and found me lying on the lounge suffering, when I intended to do a big day's work. I was so miserable I could do nothing. After my sister told me of the pills I made up my mind to try them and got a box at the W. & W. Pharmacy. ## New Work For the Energetic and Skillful Housewife

We are getting later and later every year about putting our houses into their winter garb. A few seasons ago the first chilly days would bring out the heavy curtains and warm-toned furniture coverings from their summer retirement. But now we are often in the middle of January before we think of rearranging the home. Therefore the many dilatory housewives will half with joy the announcement that there are at last some real novelties in draperies, and one now has a choice of many beautiful and artistically correct materials. The winter room should be suggestive of the luxury of fireside cheer, with the hearth-place for its center, bright, warm colors being the dominant note, colors which will focus every ray of wintry sunshine. It is surprising how the most elementary changes in a scheme will alter the whole character of a room. For instance, copper red for rose pink, orange for primrose, bronze green for soft blue, work a magical transformation from summer to winter environment.

Nothing gives a cozier or more attractive appearance to an apartment than handsome and appropriately draped doors and windows. A new and extremely beautiful fabric for decorative purposes and door draperies especially has recently been imported. It is called meronac velvet, and its creation is of considerable importance to the decorative possibilities of the class of textiles to which it belongs. This beautiful velours and its many adaptations are the work of an artistic Englishwoman's brain. She has borrowed a little from the bookbinder's art in the working out of her charming designs. The process to which this meronac velvet owes its loveliness may be described as a species of hand tooling on velvet whereby exquisite effects of light and shade are produced on its surface. To the uninitiated the word "tooling" is an unknown quantity, but after consulting a reliable authority we find that it is "decoration applied to leather or other materials by means of stamps and other metallic tools, which are applied hot, producing impressed patterns upon the surface." In the new English designs the effect is mostly worked out in gold leaf, which shades to copper and even green and red tones. The whole effect is fascinatingly beautiful.

The variations of which this meronac velvet is capable form another satisfactory characteristic. It may be used merely as a border or worked up into all-over patterns on a portiere. A beautiful drapery is made of dull rose meronac velours having an adaptation design is very deep at the bottom and at the sides near the front of the hanging, but it gradually narrows up to nothing at the top. It is the last cry now to have the heavy lace reach about three-quarters down the window length. The style is an awkward one; still we must have something different even if it is quite the ugliest thing possible.

Can you imagine a really handsome portiere being made of ten cent denim? It has been most successfully accomplished by a woman not particularly blessed with skillful fingers. The only difficulty lies in getting a perfectly

These must be at least two inches in depth running across the entire width of the curtain. Paint these figures in primary shades in water colors. You will probably find that the paints at first leave little impression, the colors sinking imperceptibly into the denim; but, without a thought of being slangy, the only thing to do is to rub it in until the right depth of tone is reached. When this drapery is lined with red denim and bordered by a fringe of old fashioned macrame, the effect is simply stunning. It goes without saying that a curtain of this description is only apa harmonizing color. An interlining of cotton flannel gives weight and enables the drapery to fall in heavy, graceful folds. Let the flannel lining be several inches shorter than the outside fabric and loose at the bottom. This avoids the puckery appearance which proclaims the homemade affair. A fine cream sateen lining is almost as good as silk.

Jaspé velvets, linen plush and kid-fabric rank high as ever in the category of winter draperies, especially when made up with borders of dull gold furniture lace or braid, a fashion which is greatly in favor.

One other novelty must be described—the Arabian lace curtain trimmings made with shaped corners to form a complete border. The rich, heavy texture of the lace, with its warm earth tint, makes an admirable contrast to the plain colored materials used, such as moire or the new satin de reine.

ELIZABETH SCOTT RAYMOND.

Controlling Children.
Bursts of passion in a little child must be met by steady, gentle firmness on the mother's side. Loud outcries should be punished not by angry words, but by a grave quietness of voice and speech, which helps to repress them by mere force of contrast.

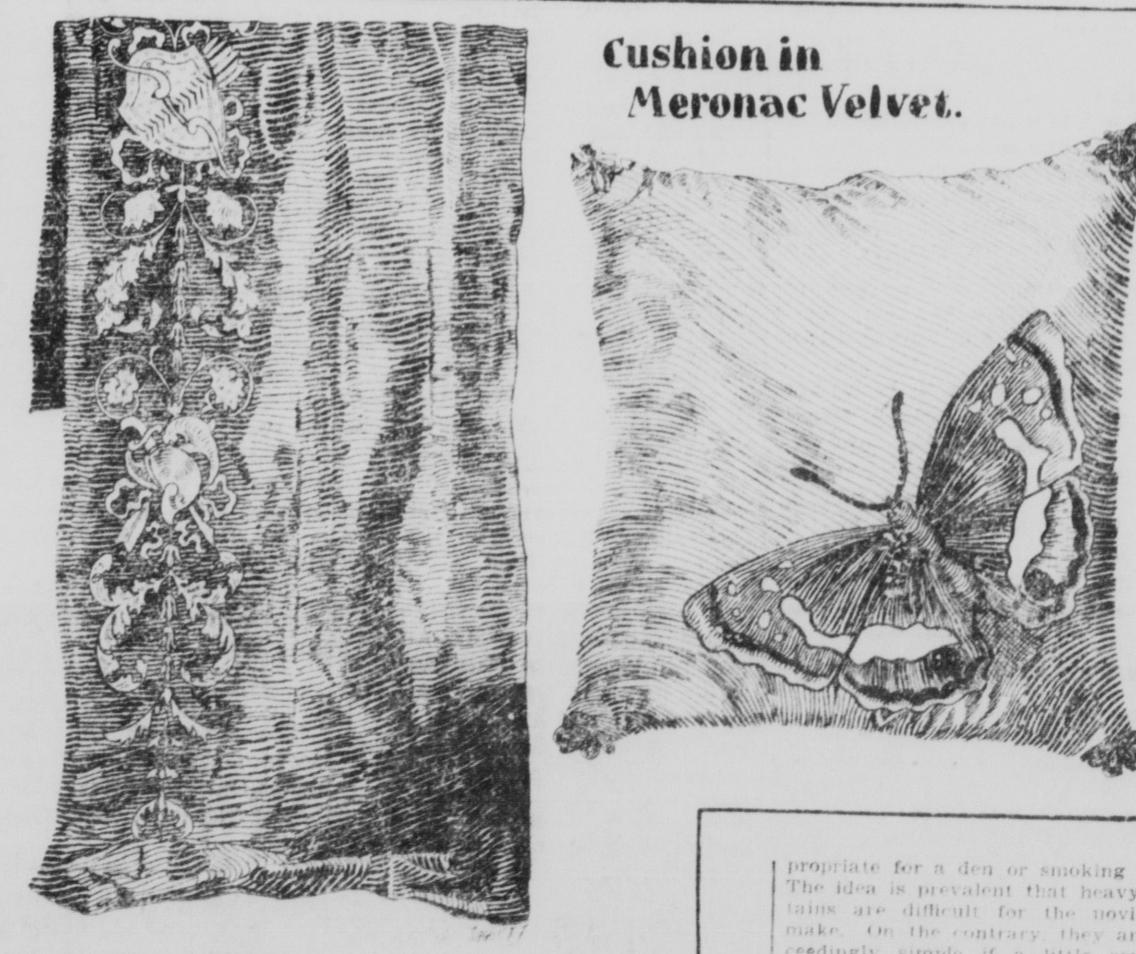

Passionate gestures, such as blows, kicks and drumming on the floor should be prevented by physical force if necessary. Above all, the thing coveted, if it causes the child to fly into a rage as the readiest means of obtaining it, should never be granted. As the child grows older and can be reasoned with he or she should be taught to avoid the beginnings of wrath, to struggle against irritability, and not to give way to it in words when it rises in the mind.

Quick tempered children often have generous, lovable natures, easily influenced for good. A wish to please another and to do what is right for its own sake may be made strong enough to close the lips against the torrent of angry words that rushes to them and so help them to victory. Each effort at self conquest makes the next one easier.

appropriate for a den or smoking room. The idea is prevalent that heavy curtains are difficult for the novice to make. On the contrary, they are exceedingly simple if a little common sense is brought to bear on the subject. The essential point is to have a long table on which to stretch the material. If any kind of applique design is to be used, not of the tooling variety, it should be stenciled and then laid on the cloth decorated with photographer's paste. # Paris Fashions as Seen In the Throngs at Nice

PARIS, Jan. 3—I have just come back from the gay Riviera capital, where all Paris seemed to be assembled. Nice, always smart and fascinating, was looking her best. There were much life and movement of well horsed vehicles and of the ubiquitous motor car under her noble avenues of trees, wherein the russet foliage still hung. The shops, to rival which one must seek the Rue de la Paix, were dazzling with beautiful wares. They seemed to display the wealth of Golconda in jewels, furs, dresses, hats, art curios and lace. The flower shops were intoxicating with scent and color from myriads of roses, lilies, violets and other blooms. The new golf links just completed will prove of immense added interest to Nice. The links and greens are first rate and command a splendid view of snow capped mountains and the sunlit bay. A good winter programme was shown at the opera house, and smart men and women are to be seen there every night, going later to the casino and fashionable restaurants.

Every morning the promenades are thronged with stunningly gowned pedestrians, for let it be known that walking, the simple, old fashioned mode of locomotion, is now considered the great remedy for the evils accompanying a superabundance of flesh. In other words, we are recommended to walk, and to walk fast, if we would retain our slim figures. And the costume required to aid us in our unaccustomed exercise needs due consideration. We must discard the fur lined suit, as it is not within reach of all, and speak of practical possibilities. We will leave aside the question of underwear and attack the coat and skirt.

The skirt must be short, without compromise. It must just escape the boot and be of equal length at back, front and sides. The coat reaches no farther than the waist and is made of fur, in preference a dark fur in harmony with the skirt. With a touch of color in the hat and in the lining of the muff, we may hope to look well while taking our constitutional.

The newest coat seen was the astrakhan blouse bolero slightly pouched over a band of black velvet at the waist. It has no collar, but the neck is outlined with a black velvet band embroidered in red and dark green silks. The same band finishes the wide bishop sleeve, and the style is very good. With an astrakhan blouse and a shawl of Persia, one has a toilet which makes life worth living and will be correct for walking anywhere. For theater and restaurant dining the high neck gown is now worn, but in its material and general fashioning the difference between this and an evening frock lies only in the fact that the bodice is high. The most economical materials for dinner dresses are silk, satin and panne. Any one of these will outwear several gowns composed of lighter fabrics. Black is always smart, particularly when relieved with a wide bertha and trimmings of good lace.

In most instances gowns are adorned with several different kinds of lace, possibly Irish crochet, filet and guipure. Girls look charming in black provided they are not too thin. Always remember that black accentuates thinness. White is also trying. In these matters you must use your own discretion. Most of us, on a limited dress allowance, have to invest in one black frock, whether it suits us or not, of time on—namely, her corsets, head-

simply because it is so useful for a hundred and one occasions. It always looks smart, and in it one never appears overdressed. Chiffon voile is the new fabric for ball gowns and will be much used this year. It has the airy, fairy appearance of chiffon and yet gear and boots. Once she has these important accessories correct she will find it wonderfully easy to appear well dressed. It was quite another matter in the days of tightly boned bodices, but now a graceful and elegant figure can wear the simplest stiffness and de-street wear. Such extravagances should be relegated entirely to those who are fortunate enough to own carriages. On the other hand, at a smart "at home" or reception there is nothing handsomer than a white frock, provided it is toned down with mink or sable.

I saw a beautiful frock composed of cream colored crochet over finely plaited crepe de chine in a deep shade of ivory. The bodice seemed to be an inner blouse of accordion plaited crepe de chine, with a loose hanging sack of the coarse crochet lace and a wide band of cream panne. The only color introduced was in a large cluster of parma violets and dark red roses—real ones, by the way—which never seem out of place.

Two lovely voile toilets worn at Nice

The second model was in dove colored silk voile over a shot mauve taffeta. The guipure collar, edged with a narrow band of fur, opened in front over a white velvet plastron strapped by bands of black velvet ribbon. A narrow plaiting of voile fashioned in bolero effect displayed the blouse of mauve taffeta beneath. The plaited skirt was broken on either side by inset incrustations of embroidery and guipure with mauve taffeta ruchings. A long, loose wrap lined with ermine and moussoing plisse completed a becoming ensemble.

John Chapman is exercising a powerful influence on western peoples. We are borrowing his coat for our cloaks and his sleeve bands for the decoration of our bonnets, and, to cap the climax, silk work—all are in vogue. It matters little whether the stitching is coarse or fine, whether it recalls the Bayeux tapestry or the fine roses of China which look as if they were painted. They copy nature's work, but they do not follow nature faithfully in the east. Birds and flowers alike are conventionalized, and rules of drawing are ignored. Fashions come and go, but the embroideries are always in vogue and have been for centuries. They are so thoroughly and well wrought that they do not deteriorate. Until the last few years Chinese embroidery had been employed as household furnishings rather than on dress, but we are now placing it on effective backgrounds and using it for entire robes and for evening cloaks.

For these effects I think there is no groundwork like black crepe de chine. The long, loose stitched work in white now so much in vogue is devoted principally to cloth materials. We are using medallions of embroidery on many fabrics, and we are brightening up our dark winter gowns with collars and vests worked in colored silk.

Marrying and giving in marriage are always before us. An acceptable novelty is the picture wedding, where the bride, bridesmaids and near relatives wear dresses inspired by old pictures. The lace trains are so arranged on the bodice as to form dehors. White satin empire gowns are in favor for attendants, and the guests are wearing a great deal of velvet covered with lace. These gowns often have slashings of satin about the sleeves and bodice after the Tudor style.

A frock for lace which matches the gown in color is one of the eccentricities of the hour. I hardly think it a pretty idea; still some of the heavy yak laces take to the dye very successfully. Another "faddy" idea is that the frock must match one's mood. Our notions of moods are so varied that black for the dumps and red when one is feeling particularly gay are the only general rule for a guide.

Simple little tricks of the needle continue to play very pretty part in blouses and frocks—for example, instead of a wide yoke a crepe de chine blouse will have the openwork effect contrived by coarse silk veining—really herringbone stitch—with the rouleaux twirled into all kinds of decorative ideas.

I was told the other day that a dainty, fine woolen canvas is the coming material for shirt waists. The comes, I trust, will be able to get skirt lengths, as I can imagine very nice spring shirt waist dresses being made from this canvas. "Sufficient," though, "unto the day," for Dame Fashion will certainly look out for her own in the coming materials.

The Flounce Growing In Importance

Flounces are growing in fussiness and importance day by day, especially where evening exigencies are concerned. A charming creation suitable to a fair debutante was arranged in delicate pink chiffon, its trim skirt decked with three fronthand flounces, each one whereof was studded with narrow ribbon and lace. The belle bodice was finished by a pointed peplum of the chiffon, dotted with dimante and hemmed lace, and bore elbow sleeves with hand-knife wing frills at their base.

Surely no better backing can be had than the following statement from Mrs. Edward Orr, of 220 Thompson street, who says: "My sister, Mrs. Borland, of Pittsburgh, while visiting us, recommended Doan's Kidney Pills, so highly that I was induced to try them. I had severe attacks of kidney complaint. Some times I was so bad I could not get up; many times my neighbors came and found me lying on the lounge suffering, when I intended to do a big day's work. I was so miserable I could do nothing. After my sister told me of the pills I made up my mind to try them and got a box at the W. & W. pharmacy. They did just what they claimed they would—cured me sound and well in a few days. My little girl was feeling poorly and had a sallow complexion for some time. I gave her a few doses and after the treatment she felt splendid."

possesses admirable wearing qualities. The gauzes and crepe de chines which will probably be offered during the sales this month at about half the usual price are admirable for small dinner and dancing gowns. If a girl has a good maid, a graceful figure, wears the right corset and knows how to put her clothes on, she ought to be able to make charming little frocks at home at a small cost.

Baby bodies are very becoming and easy to construct. They look well only on young girls, but the pity of it is that every girl thinks she is young. They depend chiefly for their success upon a piece of good lace and a properly adjusted waistband or sash, but they must be put on with care and over properly adjusted corsets. Speaking of the latter, the corset of today seems to consist of nothing but a few strands of ribbon. I assure you there is more than meets the eye, and never was this garment more difficult to make. There are certain things which every woman who wishes to be well dressed should spend a certain amount of time on—namely, her corsets, head-signs, looking better in them than many women do in a French model frock.

White will be just as popular on the Riviera as it has been in Paris. I do not advise the wearing of white simply because it is fashionable. It is expensive and in a great many cases unbearable. If it is beautifully carried out and suited to the wearer, it is charming; otherwise white hats and coats are hardly the "thing" to do service for of silk or some heavy material. A curtain especially thought out by the originator of the art is superb in cream meronac applied with an outline of gold thread to a soft, faded tone of blue silk shot with gold gleamings. This graceful motif formed the border of the hanging.

Tooled meronac should be doubly welcomed by the woman who does on cushions and has absolutely exhausted all her resources on the downy comforts. A stunning pillow which any drawing room will be proud to own is formed of a huge butterfly of red velvet lighting upon a ground of green silk. Charming, too, are the screen panels made of ivory moire with tooling clusters of La France roses. Of course it takes a woman of decided artistic ability to pick up alone this tooling on meronac velvet, but as thefad for the work increases, it certainly promises

I was told the other day that a dainty, fine wooden canvas is the coming material for shirt waists. The shops, I trust, will be able to get skirt lengths, as I can imagine very nice spring shirt waist dresses being made from this canvas. "Sufficient," though, "unto the day," for Dame Fashion will certainly look out for her own in the coming materials.

The Flounce Growing In Importance

Flounces are growing in fullness and importance day by day, especially where evening exigencies are concerned. A charming creation suitable to a fair debutante was arranged in delicate pink chiffon, its trained skirt decked with three frourou flounces, each one whereof was studded with narrow ribbon and lace. The bebe bodice was finished by a pointed peplum of the chiffon, dotted with dimante and hemmed lace, and bore elbow sleeves with handkerchief wing frills at their base.

Surely no better backing can be had than the following statement from Mrs. Edward Orr, of 220 Thompson street, who says: "My sister, Mrs. Horland, of Pittsburgh, while visiting us, recommended Doan's Kidney Pills, so highly that I was induced to try them. I had severe attacks of kidney complaint. Some times I was so bad I could not get up; many times my neighbors came and found me lying on the lounge suffering, when I intended to do a big day's work. I was so miserable I could do nothing. After my sister told me of the pills I made up my mind to try them and got a box at the W. & W. pharmacy. They did just what they claimed they would—cured me sound and well in a few days. My little girl was feeling poorly and had a sallow complexion for some time. I gave her a few doses and after the treatment she felt splendid."

New Work For the Energetic and Skillful Housewife

We are getting later and later every year about putting our houses into their winter garb. A few seasons ago the first chilly days would bring out the heavy curtains and warm toned furniture coverings from their summer retirement. But now we are often in the middle of January before we think of rearranging the home. Therefore the many dilatory housewives will hail with joy the announcement that there are at last some real novelties in draperies, and one now has a choice of many beautiful and artistically correct materials. The winter room should be suggestive of the luxury of fireside cheer, with the hearth-place for its center, bright, warm colors being the dominant note, colors which will focus every ray of wintry sunshine. It is surprising how the most elementary changes in a scheme will alter the whole character of a room. For instance, copper red for rose pink, orange for primrose, bronze green for soft blue, work a magical transformation from summer to winter environment.

Nothing gives a cozier or more attractive appearance to an apartment than handsome and appropriately draped doors and windows. A new and extremely beautiful fabric for decorative purposes and door draperies especially has recently been imported. It is called meronac velvet, and its creation is of considerable importance to the decorative possibilities of the class of textiles to which it belongs. This beautiful velours and its many adaptations are the work of an artistic Englishwoman's brain. She has borrowed a little from the bookbinder's art in the working out of her charming designs. The process to which this meronac velvet owes its loveliness may be described as a species of hand tooling on velvet whereby exquisite effects of light and shade are produced on its surface. To the uninitiated the word "tooling" is an unknown quantity, but after consulting a reliable authority we find that it is "decoration applied to leather or other materials by means of stamps and other metallic tools, which are applied hot, producing impressed patterns upon the surface." In the new English designs the effect is mostly worked out in gold leaf, which shades to copper and even green and scarlet tones. The whole effect is fascinatingly beautiful.

The variations of which this meronac velvet is capable form another satisfactory characteristic. It may be used merely as a border or worked up into all over patterns on a portiere. A beautiful drapery is made of dull rose meronac velours having an adaptation of an old Italian scroll design entirely carried out in tooling a study of strong, yet delicate, line drawing on a perfectly plain background. The all over effects are good, but the best results are from applied tooled velvet on a ground to do, classes will be formed to teach the new cult.

Another new design in the liberty tapestries is the Belvoir. In its varied harmonies of color it fills a long felt need for a material of moderate price design is very deep at the bottom and at the sides near the front of the hanging, but it gradually narrows up to nothing at the top. It is the last cry now to have the heavy lace reach about three-quarters down the window length. The style is an awkward one; still we must have something different even if it is quite the ugliest thing possible.

Can you imagine a really handsome portiere being made of ten cent denim? It has been most successfully accomplished by a woman not particularly blessed with skillful fingers. The only difficulty lies in getting a perfectly

These must be at least two inches in depth running across the entire width of the curtain. Paint these figures in primary shades in water colors. You will probably find that the paints at first leave little impression, the colors sinking imperceptibly into the denim; but, without a thought of being stingy, the only thing to do is to rub it in until the right depth of tone is reached. When this drapery is lined with red denim and bordered by a fringe of old fashioned macrame, the effect is simply stunning. It goes without saying that a curtain of this description is only appropriate for a den or smoking room. The idea is prevalent that heavy curtains are difficult for the novice to make. On the contrary, they are exceedingly simple if a little common sense is brought to bear on the subject. The essential point is to have a long table on which to stretch the material. If any kind of applique design is to be used, not of the fiddling variety, it should be stenciled and then laid on the piece desired with photographic paste.

Quick tempered children often have generous, lovable natures, easily influenced for good. A wish to please another and to do what is right for its own sake may be made strong enough to close the lips against the torrent of angry words that rushes to them and so help them to victory. Each effort at self conquest makes the next one easier.

Controlling Children.

Bursts of passion in a little child must be met by steady, gentle firmness on the mother's side. Loud outcries should be hushed not by angry words, but by a grave quietness of voice and speech, which helps to repress them by mere force of contrast.

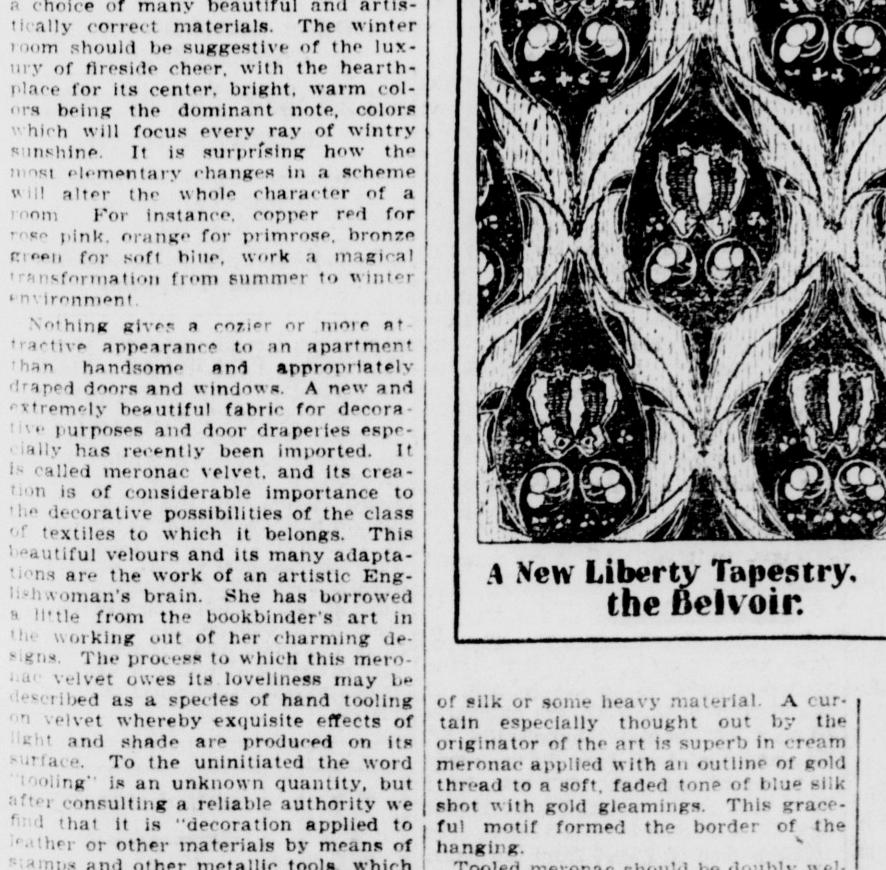

Passionate gestures, such as blows, kicks and drumming with the heels upon the floor should be prevented by physical force if necessary. Above all, the thing coveted, if it causes the child to fly into a rage as the readiest means of obtaining it, should never be granted. As the child grows older and can be reasoned with he or she should be taught to avoid the beginnings of wrath, to struggle against irritability, and not to give way to it in words when it rises in the mind.

A wish to please another and to do what is right for its own sake may be made strong enough to close the lips against the torrent of angry words that rushes to them and so help them to victory. Each effort at self conquest makes the next one easier.

Flushed Faces.

A woman's flushed face is generally caused either by tight lacing or by indigestion. Drink cocoa instead of tea, avoid rich, indigestible foods and wear corsets quite loose. Red bands and arms, too, are often due to tight lacing and in some cases to tight sleeves.

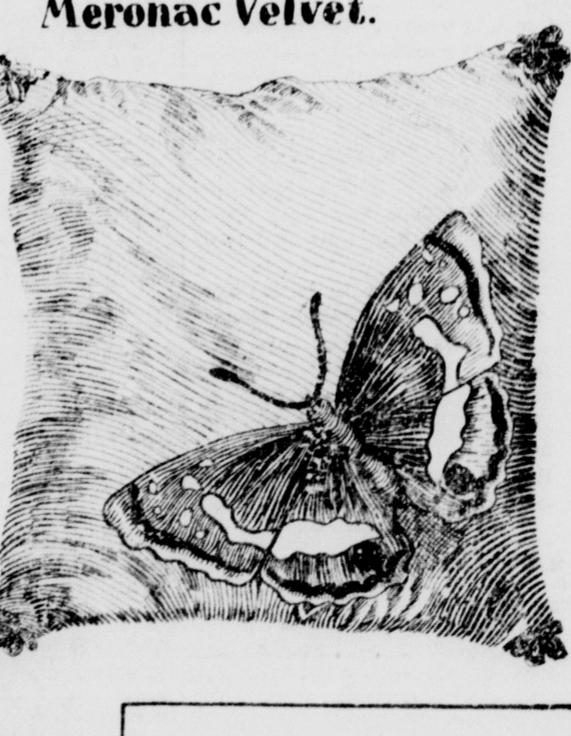

Do not use furniture polishes on a piano. Merely rub it with a soft, dry cloth.

OTHER DRUNKS BEFORE THE MAYOR THIS MORNING.

East End Boys Arrested for Snowballing—Two Appeared And Were Fined.

Seven hours of hilarity last evening terminated disastrously for a woman giving as her name Rosie Sibley and her residence as Oil City, Pa. She was arrested at about 11:30 o'clock by Officer Saulsbury, who preferred a charge of drunk and disorderly against her.

Before Mayor Davidson this morning his honor imposed the usual fine. She did not produce and was again committed to the jail. Going after a concealed purse she discovered that $3.14 remained as a remembrance of her evening's enjoyment. She also had a ring for which she paid $8 not more than a year ago. These she had Sanitary Burgess take and instructed him to make a plea for her liberty. The officer's flow of eloquence soon had its effect and in a short time Rosie was breathing free air.

Two others fell into the hands of the police also during the evening. They were Barney O'Rourke, arrested by Officer Woods and Jack Sharp, by Officer Rose. Neither had a penny and no way of securing one. As a result they were given a lecture and given freedom. —

For throwing snowballs in the East End, in the vicinity of the Horace Mann school building, four boys were arrested by Officer Fisher yesterday afternoon. He did not lock them up and two of them appeared for trial this morning. They were Jim Weisend and Jim Sinclair. Both were fined $1 and costs and given a severe lecture.

Beautiful selections of music, both vocal and instrumental, and an elaborate reception were the features of the evening.

Detention Proceedings—Mrs. Mary E. Cooper instituted forcible detention proceedings in Squire J. N. ## NEW LINE OPPOSED

PERTINENT QUESTIONS ABOUT PROPOSED STREET CAR ROUTE.

A Property Holder Asks If the City Desires to Have Pennsylvania Avenue Ruined.

The Patterson Foundry and Machine Company, East Liverpool, O., Jan. 27, 1903.

To the Editor of the News Review:

A word about the new street car line to East End beginning on Fifth street, at Market street, extending over part of Fifth street, all of Kossooth, part of Pennsylvania avenue, then over the new East End road to the East End. Do the public and the city council want this road over this route? If so, why so much secrecy? Why do the newspapers have nothing to say about it? Cannot the dear public be trusted to know its wants, that it is necessary to keep it from any knowledge until the right of way has been secured?

Let us examine this proposed right of way and see what reasons, if any there are, for its use. To commence with Pennsylvania avenue; where it intersects with Kossooth street, we have an angle and a grade that is worse than the one on the Calcutta route where so many accidents have occurred. Do we want a repetition of this awful record? Then the new East End road that has cost more than $30,000 to build and not yet paid for, only decent inlet to the city, and by the way a monument to those members of council who worked so hard and suffered so much abuse for it building, do we want it ruined?

To this friends of the proposed route make answer that they have bought a right of way immediately adjacent to and parallel with this new road—which we believe to be only 15 feet wide! Will it be any less dangerous to teams or to those using this road by reason of them having seconded this? Will they not run at their own speed, will it not entail upon council the expense of maintaining a costly railing the entire length of about 1½ miles? To those who own teams or drive over this splendid road, are you ready to surrender your rights to a corporation and realize the same results that have been realized on the road from this city to Wellsville, which is almost impassable for vehicles of any class? Every few days there is one or more teams on this road knocked out and often thrown over a steep embankment.

I do not believe that either the citizens of East Liverpool or its members of council are ready to make this sacrifice for another street car line to the East End. However, if the members of council think best to make this sacrifice, then let there be no secrecy in the matter. Let there be no closed meetings with its members and the representatives of this proposed street railway. Suspend no rules, but rather let each step take its regular and legal course. Advertise for bids for said franchise, for these will be competitive for it. Yours Respectfully,

Fatal Mine Fire.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 27.—The tipple of the Harris Lankford mine, three miles west of here, was burned yesterday morning. One man was killed and four others were so badly suffocated that their recovery is doubtful. The mine, which is a small one, has but one entrance, and fire destroyed the hoisting machinery, rendering the work of rescue very difficult. The 20 men working below were hoisted to the surface by ropes, and all were more or less suffocated. The dead: James Webner, aged 35, married, no children. Probably fatally injured: Archer Conking, Virgil Conking, James Blackburn and an unknown man, a visitor to the mine.

Her strenuous effort to live up to the expectations of her neighbors is what chases the roses from a woman's cheeks.—Chicago News.

A word about the new street car line to East End beginning on Fifth street, at Market street, extending over part of Fifth street, all of Kossuth, part of Pennsylvania avenue, then over the new East End road to the East End. ## OTHER DRUNKS BEFORE THE MAYOR THIS MORNING.

East End Boys Arrested for Snowballing—Two Appeared And Were Fined.

Seven hours of hilarity last evening terminated disastrously for a woman giving as her name Rosie Sibley and her residence as Oil City, Pa. She was arrested at about 11:30 o'clock by Officer Saulsbury, who preferred a charge of drunk and disorderly against her.

Before Mayor Davidson this morning his honor imposed the usual fine.

She did not produce and was again committed to the jail. Going after a concealed purse she discovered that $3.14 remained as a remembrance of her evening's enjoyment. She also had a ring for which she paid $8 not more than a year ago. These she had Sanitary Burgess take and instructed him to make a plea for her liberty. The officer's show of eloquence soon had its effect and in a short time Rosie was breathing free air.

Two others fell into the hands of the police also during the evening. They were Barney O'Rourke, arrested by Officer Woods and Jack Sharp, by Officer Rose.

Neither had a penny and no way of securing one. As a result they were given a lecture and given freedom.

For throwing snowballs in the East End, in the vicinity of the Horace Mann school building, four boys were arrested by Officer Fisher yesterday afternoon. He did not lock them up and two of them appeared for trial this morning. They were Jim Weisend and Jim Sinclair. Both were fined $1 and costs and given a severe lecture.

FATAL MINE FIRE.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 27.—The tipples of the Harris Lankford mine, three miles west of here, was burned yesterday morning. One man was killed and four others were so badly suffocated that their recovery is doubtful. The mine, which is a small one, has but one entrance, and fire destroyed the hoisting machinery, rendering the work of rescue very difficult. The 20 men working below were hoisted to the surface by ropes, and all were more or less suffocated. The dead: James Webner, aged 35, married, no children. Probably fatally injured: Archer Conking, Virgil Conking, James Blackburn and an unknown man, a visitor to the mine.

Then why, with all these advantages, coupled with the finest climate in the world, wouldn't it be good business for you to look into the matter? You can make money out of it, as well as others who HAVE and are still making money out of that country. Will you permit us to write you further and answer any questions you desire to ask us? ### NEW LINE OPPOSED

PERTINENT QUESTIONS ABOUT PROPOSED STREET CAR ROUTE.

A Property Holder Asks If the City Desires to Have Pennsylvania Avenue Ruined.

The Patterson Foundry and Machine Company.

East Liverpool, O., Jan. 27, 1903.

To the Editor of the News Review:

A word about the new street car line to East End beginning on Fifth street, at Market street, extending over part of Fifth street, all of Kossuth, part of Pennsylvania avenue, then over the new East End road to the East End. Do the public and the city council want this road over this route? If so, why so much secrecy? Why do the newspapers have nothing to say about it? Cannot the dear public be trusted to know its wants, that it is necessary to keep it from any knowledge until the right of way has been secured?

Let us examine this proposed right of way and see what reasons, if any there are, for its use. To commence with Pennsylvania avenue; where it intersects with Kossuth street, we have an angle and a grade that is worse than the one on the Calcutta route where so many accidents have occurred. Do we want a repetition of this awful record? Then the new East End road that has cost more than $30,000 to build and not yet paid for, the only decent inlet to the city, and by the way a monument to those members of council who worked so hard and suffered so much abuse for it building, do we want it ruined?

To this the friends of the proposed route make answer that they have bought a right of way immediately adjacent to and parallel with this new road—which we believe to be only 15 feet wide! Will it be any less dangerous to teams or to those using this road by reason of them having seconded this? Will they not run at their own speed, will it not entail upon council the expense of maintaining a costly railing the entire length of about 1½ miles? To those who own teams or drive over this splendid road, are you ready to surrender your rights to a corporation and realize the same results that have been realized on the road from this city to Wellsville, which is almost impassable for vehicles of any class? Every few days there is one or more teams on this road knocked out and often thrown over a steep embankment.

I do not believe that either the citizens of East Liverpool or its members of council are ready to make this sacrifice for another street car line to the East End. However, if the members of council think best to make this sacrifice, then let there be no secrecy in the matter. Let there be no closed meetings with its members and the representatives of this proposed street rail. suspend no rules, but rather let each step take its regular and legal course. Advertise for bids for said franchise, for these will be competitive for it. Yours respectfully,

THE LAND OF PROMISE.

You have of course heard of Texas and Louisiana, but do you know as much about their resources as you should? Do you know that within the borders of these two states there is a strip of country 50 to 60 miles wide, extending from New Orleans, La., to Corpus Christi, Texas, which is referred to as the "Coast Country," and that it is the richest strip of ground in the world? Do you know that you can now buy land in that belt for from $7.50 to $40 per acre that will yield you a NET revenue of from $50 to $200 per acre every year? Do you know that ALL these lands are enhancing one hundred per cent, and in some instances, even more, every year?

Do you know that over 100,000 families have located in this section within the past three years, and that this PHENOMENAL EMIGRATION is increasing, and will continue to do so as long as such lands can be had cheap? Do you know that these lands will naturally go to $100 and probably $200 an acre in a few years?

Do you know that there can be from TWO to SIX crops grown upon these lands every year, and that they are in close touch with the world's greatest markets? Do you know that it is the BEST class of people who are investing their money in that country? Do you know that your investments in that favored spot are safe, and possibly even safer, than they are in your own locality, and will make you independent?

Then why, with all these advantages, coupled with the finest climate in the world, wouldn't it be good business for you to look into the matter? You can make money out of it, as well as others who HAVE and are still making money out of that country. Will you permit us to write you further and answer any questions you desire to ask us? It will not cost you anything to inquire, and you may be glad you did so.

We have an excursion to that country leaving Columbus and Cincinnati January 31st

STUBBORN NIGHT FIRE DAMAGES BRUNT POTTERY

The Blaze Started In the Decorating Department and Was Subdued After Long and Arduous Effort.

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $32,000, FULLY INSURED

Long columns of dense smoke issuing from the second story windows along the south wall of the William Brunt pottery building, corner of East Third and Walnut streets, shortly after 9 o'clock last evening, caused the greatest of alarm in the neighborhood, and a hurrying throng of people to gather at the scene. These columns shot 10 feet from the building before losing their spiral shape, evidencing the fierce fire that was raging within.

A few minutes later flames burst through the windows of the east side of the southeast corner and darted half way across the alley that separates the pottery building from the Harker residence property. It looked as if the residence would soon be included in the fire, and only the timely arrival and quick work of the fire department prevented.

The blaze was at first confined to the woodwork between the first and second floors and ignited, it is thought from the heat of one of the decorating kilns. It was the work of the watchman, Charles Walters, to tear out the door and watch the kiln in the process of cooling. This is properly accomplished by removing the bricks one tier at a time, but it is thought that the watchman did the work with too much haste and the heat issuing through the door soon had the surrounding wood-work in a highly inflammable state.

When the combustion came the whole room sprang, in an instant, into a raging blaze. Walters hurried to the corner of Walnut and East Fourth streets and turned on an alarm. Another alarm was turned in by J. E. Anderson.

The firemen soon learned that they were confronted by one of the most difficult fires in years and the East

DYNAMITE FOR BANQUETERS A NEW STREET RAILWAY TO EAST END DISTRICTS

Anonymous Postal Card to Col. Taylor Says Anarchists Will Blow Up Building Where Distinguished Men Are to Feast at Canton Tonight.

C. A. Smith Behind a Project For Which the Rights of Way Are Practically All Secured.

LAND FOR POWER HOUSE ALREADY PURCHASED

A profound sensation was occasioned early last evening among the East Liverpool delegation honored by an invitation to attend the McKinley banquet at Canton tonight in commemoration of the late president's birthday anniversary, when Colonel John N. Taylor, one of the delegation, disclosed the fact that he had received warning not to attend the banquet, as anarchists had planned to dynamite the building.

The warning was written on a postal card, postmarked at Chicago and was worded about as follows:

"Dear Friend Mr. Taylor—If you value your life, don't attend the McKinley banquet at Canton Tuesday evening. I am informed that the building will be blown to atoms during the progress of the festivities. Anarchists are behind the plot, and they are after President Roosevelt, who will be present."

There was no signature attached to the message, and Col. Taylor at once determined to not let the matter worry him. He argued that the postal card was from a personal friend. Had it been from one it most certainly would have contained the signature of the man carrying so much for his welfare and safety.

Other members of the delegation were not so easily convinced of its being a fake. They pondered over the words and much uneasiness was shown by them for some time.

However, they, accompanied by Col. Taylor, left on the noon train for Rochester, where they transfer to a train that will bear them into Canton at 4 o'clock.

The latest and by far the most gigantic undertaking in the business career of C. A. Smith and his associates, who are noted for their extraordinary enterprise and tact, has just come to the public notice. When realized, the project will mean much to the people of East Liverpool. The News Review is able to give the details as they were outlined by Mr. Smith himself.

"It is a very simple question, and one which should not be hard to determine. If the people of East Liverpool and vicinity want a competing railway line they can get it without a cent of expense or inconvenience to themselves. That is our proposition, and we propose to be made clear as to their feelings with regard to the matter before we proceed. We expected there would be opposition, but are prepared to meet it. The entire question is up to the people. If they want a line which will give satisfactory service we will furnish it.

"It has been said that the residents of Thompson and Pennsylvania avenues object to the construction of a railroad upon these thoroughfares. Now, as far as Pennsylvania avenue is concerned, we do not propose to utilize one inch of the road for any purpose other than a single crossing.

The intention is to start at a point on Fifth street where the East Liverpool line passes on Market street.

From there it will follow Fifth street across Broadway and continue out Fifth to the top of the hill. We have not fully determined just what course it will take from there, but it will either traverse Vine street or Thompson avenue to a point south of the reservoir. In that way Pennsylvania avenue will be reached, and it is here, we will encounter the difficulty. Now as a matter of fact we have secured pri-

the claim is made by the interested ones that it emanates from the opposition company. In any case, the citizens generally will be the deciding power, and to them the case will be presented. In an interview with a News Review reporter this morning, Mr. Smith said:

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

NOTES FROM PEOORIA.

Pearl, Ill., January 27.—Things are moving along in good shape here and the prospects are very bright for steady work for the clay department. One kilometer arrived from Ford City Thursday and one from New Castle Saturday.

The biscuit and glost men put in a big Sunday and the firm seems to have plenty of orders as the ware keeps moving out. The printers are not doing much but the decorative department is rushed.

The local meets today and five candidates will be initiated. The auditing committee will report, showing No. 27 to be in good condition financially.

Walter Smith will start on the big jigger at Monmouth, Ill., in about a week, making white ware. They are going to run two jiggers on stone ware and should this prove successful they will build a large plant. The white ware is under the management of Mr. Spencer.

M.RHEAD IN TOWN.

Bertrand Rhead, the representative of Thomas Hulme, potters' merchant, of Hanley, England, is in the city again after a brief business trip to Toronto, Wheeling and other down the river pottery towns. He will remain here for several weeks and can be found at the Thompson house.

HAPPILY MARRIED.

The many friends of James McAdoo, the popular foreman of the Calumet sewer pipe plant and a prominent young man of Toronto, will be agreeably surprised to learn of marriage to Miss Nellie Herron, a Terre Haute, Ind., young lady.

THE REASON GIVEN.

The reason for the two weeks layoff at the New Cumberland plant of the Union Potteries company is given that a change will be made from scheme to general ware. It is thought that the change can be made in the time stated.

CLOCK WAS WRONG.

Ed Messer, his batter-out, Reuben McCoy and Walter Cronin, who board at his home, reached the Union pottery, where they are employed, an hour too early yesterday morning. In some way the alarm clock which arouses the household sounded the alarm an hour too soon and the mistake was not discovered until they reached the plant.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The directors of the East Liverpool Potteries company held a meeting last evening in the offices of the coming for the purpose of selecting officers for the following year. Only one change was made, Robert Hall succeeding George C. Murphy, as president. Mr. Murphy was elected auditor.

There is probably no pitcher of recent years, says a well known sporting writer, who took the care of himself that Winnie Mercer did. He realized that it was his stock in trade, and its every whim was catered to at a complete disregard of time or trouble.

Mercer never went into a game without at least a half hour of work on his arm and shoulder. After a thorough treatment by the club masseur, the standard liniment in use by all ball players would be liberally applied and rubbed in.

Another massage would follow and the player would then produce a compound of his own. It was in liquid form and smell strongly of ammonia but none of his friends knew where he got it or what its ingredients were.

This would also be rubbed in, and when the final massage would be finished the arm would be well covered up and the work on the field would begin.

If the day was hot Mercer never used porous plasters on his shoulders, but if there was a chill in the air the big plaster would be spread on the back of the shoulder, and another over the front.

The action of the plaster on warm days was replaced by the special liniment, which other pitchers, who have used it, have found unusually severe and biting. His warming up was as thorough as his indoor preparation.

Slow balls, pitched with full body swing, formed the greater part of his work, and often one of the substitutes did the catching.

When this had been kept up long enough to remove all possibility of strain, Mercer would signal to the man detailed to do the catching, and there would be a few fast ones and curves, but not more than a half dozen as a rule.

Between the innings Mercer's arm was always bundled up, no matter how hot the day. To many this exceeding care has been the explanation commonly given to Mercer's long usefulness on the diamond in a position where many men cannot last more than three or four years.

The Wheeling & Lake Erie has recently equipped a number of its freight cabooses with the new telephone system, which has been in use at several stations of the road for the past two months.

By means of this instrument, the conductor of a freight train may secure telephone connection with four of the offices of the road in a few minutes.

Cleveland, Canton, Kent and Navarre are equipped with the instruments and should any wreck or any other accident happen to a freight, the conductor could secure a line of communication with any of these offices by merely throwing an extension rod up to the telegraph wires. The rod has much the appearance of a jointed fish pole and requires very little time to adjust.

The telephoning over the telegraph wires does not interfere with their use for telegraphing, as both operations can be carried on at the same time. The inventor of the system is now at work on the scheme, trying to render it still nearer perfection, as there are several small inconveniences which prohibit its taking the place of the telegraph except in cases of emergency.

A short time ago the Wabash railroad requested that the Wheeling give them the benefit of their experiment in the matter and will likely do so in the course of time that all of the Gould railroads will adopt the device as well as many others. The Wheeling was the first to adopt it and has found that, while still in its crude stages, the device is a very good and valuable one to railroads and when perfected will no doubt entirely supersede its time-honored rival, the telegraph.

this year. Not a single man at any time became fatigued and lost his head and the ball. The East Liverpool boys played a terribly hard game. It was surely their misfortune, not their fault, that they lost the game. The play tended a little towards roughness in the second half, but never became dirty. East Liverpool was a little off on basket throwing, missing many good chances. As usual, she put up a fine game at passing the ball, while the Marietta team showed a decided improvement in this regard also, and with her advantage in height to help her succeeded in taking care of the ball in great style.

At the close of the first half the score stood 6 to 2 in favor of Marietta, in the second half, however, East Liverpool strengthened up wonderfully and all through the half played a fierce game. In this half she made eight points to Marietta's five.

HOW A POLICEMAN*Tony Mullane Famous As a Ball Player, Now One of Chicago's Finest.

Tony Mullane, the baseball player, donned a brand new uniform the other day and now is a full-fledged Chicago policeman. Tony was a long time quitting baseball, and has been one of the marvels of the game. He was pitching for Erie, Pa., in 1879, and from there he went into the American association.

He signed in 1884 every contract that had any advance money in it, and elected to play at Toledo, that club having to get him out of jail on habeas corpus proceedings in almost every town. His peculiar motion saved his arm, which he said only last summer, had never been sore in twenty-three years of use.

LUTZ IN TRAINING*He Will Make Every Effort to Insure a Victory Over the Pennsylvania Lad.

Since final arrangements have been made by Larry Lutz and Charley Miller for their 15-round bout to be pulled off before the Nonpareil club at Beaver Falls on the evening of February 11, Lutz has gone into training and yesterday morning made his first trip up to the hill districts. He states that he does not expect to have a "sausage" in Miller and will train continuously until the date.

Many of his personal friends and backers in the city are so confident that he will win from the Pennsylvania lad that they have sent word to Beaver Falls that any amount under $100 will be covered at even money.

The enmity that has existed between the two for several years will no doubt cause them to fight in dead earnest, and all can rest assured that an interesting contest will greet every spectator.

Constipation

Will Undermine Your Health.*Mull's Grape Tonic Cures Constipation.

When the sewer of a city becomes stopped up, the refuse backs into the streets where it decays and rots, spreading disease-creating germs throughout the entire city. An epidemic of sickness follows. It is the same way when the bowels fail to work. The undigested food backs into the system and there it rots and decays. From this festering mass the blood saps up all the disease germs, and at every heart beat carries them to every tissue just as the water works of a city forces impure water into every house. The only way to cure a condition like this is to cure the constipation. Pills and the ordinary cathartics will do no good.

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC
is a crushed fruit tonic-laxative which permanently cures the affliction. The tonic properties contained in the grape go into every afflicted tissue and creates strength and health. It will quickly restore lost flesh and make rich, red blood. As a laxative the action is immediate and positive, gentle and natural. Mull's Grape Tonic is guaranteed or money back. Send to Lightning Medicine Co., Rock Island, Ill., for large sample bottle. EAST END*AN END OF A NUISANCE

Arrest of East End Boys Likely to Stop Practice of Snow-balling.

The arrest of four East End boys for throwing snow balls has had a good effect and pedestrians can now pass along the streets in safety. The nuisance had grown to such a stage that it was practically unsafe for ladies and children to pass along the streets as the boys did not seem to care what kind of snow balls they threw or who they hit.

The officers had repeatedly warned the offenders but it apparently had but little effect, for as soon as the police were out of sight the boys would renew the bombardment on any and every person that came in sight. Several people have been painfully injured by being hit on the head with frozen balls, but as a usual thing they have had no recourse, as the offenders were usually boys whom they did not care to prosecute.

It is thought that the action of the police in bringing the four boys from the Horace Mann school to justice will end the nuisance in that part of the city for this winter at least.

CHILD STUNNED BY A SNOWBALL

It Contained a Stone in the Center And Injured Her Head Badly.

Bessie, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mercer, of the East End, met with an accident yesterday afternoon which might have resulted fatally.

While the little girl was passing along the street on her way to the East End school, some one struck her in the back of the head with a snow ball.

The snow ball, however, did not happen to be of the ordinary kind, but in it was imbedded a large stone which, striking the little girl with great force, knocked her down, stunning her and caused a deep and ugly gash in the back of her head. The wound bled profusely and it was necessary for a physician to put several stitches in the cut.

MI-O-NA A GUARANTEED CURE

Folly of Treating Dyspepsia With Pepsin Tablets.

Mo-na is entirely different from other treatments for dyspepsia. The fact that it is sold by Will Reed, the popular druggist, under his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure dyspepsia and restore normal weight, shows that it possesses unusual merit.

Mo-na is not an ordinary laxative pill; it is not a digestive tablet composed of pepsin or pancreatin; it is not a mere stimulant and tonic. Mo-na is a compressed food tablet that furnishes the constituents necessary to build up the system, it aids the food to assimilate, and strengthens and regulates the digestive organs, enabling the body to gain in natural, healthy plumpness.

Austin Flint, M. D., Professor of Physiology in the Bellevue Hospital Medical college, New York city, one of the most eminent medical men in the country, says: "I have yet to see a single case in which any of the pepsin, pancreatin or the physiologically absurd combinations of pepsin and pancreatin seem to have produced any benefit, even of a temporary character."

This statement from a man of Dr. Flint's standing should convince any one of the folly of trying to cure dyspepsia of the digestive organs by the ordinary dyspepsia tablets and powders. Mo-na gives quick relief and makes permanent cures. The best evidence that can be offered as to its superiority and its power to cure is the fact that Will Reed will return your money if Mo-na does not help you.

Rev. G. W. Orcutt, are meeting with great success, and quite a number of conversions are reported. The congregation last night crowded the church to its utmost capacity and it was necessary to place chairs in the aisles so that everybody could be seated.

The services at the Second U. P. church under the direction of Rev. Mr. Duncan are meeting with equal success. A large congregation was in attendance last night to hear the eloquent speaker deliver a sermon on the subject of "Heaven And Hell." Rev. Mr. Duncan will conduct the services until Wednesday evening, when he will leave for his home at New Concord to conduct the funeral services over the remains of one of the leading members of his church. Rev. Mr. McQuiston will have charge of the services the balance of the week.

Temporary Shelter.

Preparations are now being made by Timmons & Co., of Philadelphia, who have the contract of grading 18 miles of the C. & P. for the new double-track, for the erection of several temporary buildings along the railroad between the East End and Smith's Ferry, in which the employees of the firm will live during the coming summer.

A representative of the company scoured the East End for vacant houses Monday, but there was none to be found, and the firm at once gave orders for the erection of the buildings, which will be erected at once.

The customs congress of American republics is right in urging a series of reciprocity arrangements between the various countries of the continent. This was an idea which received a great deal of attention from Henry Clay. It was one of James G. Blaine's projects. Neither statesmen accomplished much in a practical way, although each made a beginning in his work. There is a chance here for some wise statesmanship on the part of congress in Washington. Manifestly, however, this is altogether too vast a question to be dealt with in the short time remaining of the life of the present congress.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Closing Very Dull, but Firm at Top
Prices—Bonds Were Dull and Heavy.

New York, Jan. 27.—The professional traders in stocks were in a more cheerful frame of mind yesterday and expressed relief over the good prospects reported for the settlement of the Venezuelan difficulty and the lifting of the blockade of the Venezuelan coast. There is no doubt that the state of irritation that has accompanied the blockade has been an influence toward depression in the financial world, but yesterday's market did not indicate conclusively that it was that alone that withheld people from taking commitments in securities. The market had one or two spurts, when an appearance of considerable animation was imparted to the trading, but at other times the trading was actually stagnant.

West Virginia has a good deal to be proud of, but her Lynchings are a thing to make good citizens hang their heads in humiliation and regret. It is to be hoped that the latest display of the barbaric spirit, which took place not far from Charleston, where the legislature is in session, will cause the legislature to heed Gov. White's advice and enact laws that will prevent the recurrence of such melancholy and unnecessary infractions of the statutes by organized mobs.

The East Liverpool Elks are to be congratulated on the success of their exertions to give the people of this city a magnificent entertainment. Music lovers—a class very numerous in this city—have seldom had a richer treat brought to their very doors than that provided by the Pittsburg orchestra. The affair was well managed all through, and the public has reason to thank the Elks.

Rev. Dr. David Jones on Sunday uttered a popular sentiment when he pointed out East Liverpool's need of a hospital. His words should be heard and heeded. The coming summer should not be allowed to go by without seeing the building finished. The thing can be accomplished if the proper effort is put forth and the proper spirit of co-operation made manifest.

It is said that the big monopolists are reconciled to the enactment of the Knox anti-trust bill. Probably they accept this in order to head off something harsher. The chances are that their opposition in any case would not avail.

Governor Pennington asserts that his will not be a political administration. What a novelty Pennsylvania

OBITUARY

Mrs. J. Q. A. Miller.

Toronto, January 27.—Mrs. J. Q. A. Miller, wife of Rev. Mr. Miller, died Sunday morning, aged 64 years. Her maiden name was Jennie E. Crump, and she was born at Cochranville, Pa., on May 24, 1839, and was united in marriage to Rev. J. Q. A. Miller on February 7, 1856. She was a devoted member of the Methodist Episcopal church all her life and was a most estimable Christian woman. She is survived by her husband and these children: Mayor C. E. Miller, Mrs. F. W. Pentland, of Toronto; H. D. Miller, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mrs. Lottie Herron, of Zanesville.

William R. Thompson.

William Ramsey Thompson, formerly of this city, died at his home, 5703 Rural avenue, East End, Pittsburgh, yesterday. Pneumonia caused death. He was born in Glen Falls, N. Y., and after a number of years' residence here removed to Pittsburgh, where he was manager of the Pittsburgh office of a well known insurance company. He leaves a widow and six children: Julia C., Florence M., George W., Harvey L., and Silas. He was a member of Alexander Hays post No. 3, G. A. R., and of the Sixth United Presbyterian church.

STUBBORN NIGHT FIRE DAMAGES BRUNT POTTERY

fuel in the inflammable materials of the decorating department. It was impossible to gain a near approach to the flames in this department, as there are no windows through the north wall. The line from the Walnut street side could not be taken any great distance into the building on account of the smoke, and every few minutes the men in charge were compelled to return to the windows for fresh air.

At this time it seemed that the entire plant would be destroyed, as the flames had reached the rafters supporting the roof and were raging fiercely on all three floors. But the firemen redoubled their efforts and soon the spectators could see that they were preventing the flames from reaching other parts of the building. At 11 o'clock, two hours after the blaze was discovered, the firemen were masters of the situation. It had been one of the stubbornest and fiercest battles they had experienced in years.

The loss is estimated this morning to be about $32,000, most of which is to the stock stored in the first and second floors. There was also a large quantity of ware in the decorating department on the third floor. The walls are intact and the interior is damaged much less than was expected. The floor of the second story, except around the kilns, is in fairly good shape and the floor of the third story can easily be repaired. The decorating kilns do not appear to be badly damaged. The eastern end of the decorating department suffered the most damage on the third floor. In this section is located the sample room, which are practically ruined.

All departments at the pottery with the exception of the decorators went to work as usual this morning, and it is not likely that the work will stop at all if the insurance is promptly adjusted. The clay part, dipping department, green rooms, glost and biscuit kiln sheds and a part of the glost warehouse were not reached by the flames or damaged to any extent by the smoke and water.

It was stated at the office this morning that all the damage could be repaired in a brief time, possibly in a week. Men were at work this morning baling the water from around the decorating kilns.

The plant was fully insured in the agency of George H. Owen & Co.

Two Killed in Wreck.

Williamsport, Pa., Jan. 27.—Two men were killed and one fatally injured yesterday in a freight wreck which occurred on the Williamsport and North Branch railroad, near Satterfield, Sullivan county, a short distance from here. The dead are Edward Darling and Thomas Swank, brakemen. Harley Edkins, conductor, was pinned beneath the tender and had both legs broken. He was nearly frozen to death when rescued. He cannot recover. Engineer Siegelman and Lord Fairman, a brakeman, were also injured. The wreck was caused by an open switch. Conductor Edkins died after being rescued from the wrecks.

Mr. von Kunits is the eminent violinist and concert master of the Pittsburgh orchestra which played in this city last evening. Mrs. von Kunits was formerly Miss Kittens.

WELLSVILLE

LOSSES AND INSURANCE
IN THE WELLSVILLE FIRE

Judge Smith Will at Once Have the Badly Wrecked Building Reconstructed.

In a conversation held last evening between Judge P. M. Smith, the owner of the building which was destroyed by fire yesterday morning, and a reporter of this paper it was learned that Mr. Smith will start at once to reconstruct and remodel the remains of the building. The building will be reconstructed on the same plan it was before and the rooms in the building will probably be occupied by the same people.

The land on which the building stood, it has been learned, does not belong to Mr. Smith, but to the heirs of the entailed estate of Allen McDonald. Mr. Smith merely has a five-year lease on the land. Were it not for this fact, and had Mr. Smith owned the ground, he would have an excellent three-story brick building built.

Mr. Smith stated last evening that his insurance on the building alone amounted to $2,500. Of this $1,500 is with the Union Insurance company, of Philadelphia, and the balance of $1,000 is with the Richland Insurance company, of Mansfield, O. The total loss to the building amounted to $8,000, which shows Mr. Smith's actual loss to be about $5,500. This does not include his loss of a valuable law library and other office equipment.

C. V. Shoub, who aside from Mr. Smith, was the heaviest loser, arrived in the city last evening from Alliance and after inspecting the remains of his store placed his loss at $6,000, although it is said to have amounted to somewhat more than this. Mr. Shoub has $4,050 insurance; $725 with the Home Insurance company, of New York; $1,200 with the Liverpool, London and Globe, of New York; $750 with the Insurance company of North America, of Philadelphia; $625 with the Providence Washington Insurance company, of Providence, R. I., and $750 with the Scottish Union and National Insurance company, of Edinburgh.

It is understood that M. E. Blackburn's stock was also covered by insurance, although the amount of the loss and the insurance cannot be learned. The loss at the Union Printing company is totally covered by insurance.

Local firemen who helped to fight the fire of yesterday say that it was one of the hardest fires to fight that has occurred in this city for many years.

BILLS ORDERED PAID

Board of Education Holds a Meeting. Need of New Organ Pointed Out.

The regular meeting of the board of education was held here last evening at their office in the central building on Ninth street. President P. H. White presided and members Dr. Parkes Rex, Dr. F. K. Hutcheson, W. F. Jones and A. G. MacKenzie were present. Prof. J. L. MacDonald was also present. The meeting was a very short one, as there was but very little business to be transacted.

All of the outstanding bills were ordered paid, also the salaries for the teachers and janitors of the different buildings. A half dozen brushes were ordered by the board to be used by the janitors for cleaning their buildings.

When the superintendent's report was asked for, Prof. MacDonald stated that all of the teachers had not yet handed in their written reports for the month of December and that he was therefore unable to give a report as to the attendance and so forth last month. He reported, however, that everything was going along smoothly in the schools and all of the teachers were doing satisfactory work.

Mr. McDonald suggested to the board that an organ be purchased for the highest grade in the grammar school at the central building. He said that an organ was of great assistance to the scholars in their music and as this particular grade was really the preparatory step to entering the high school he believed that the room ought to be furnished with a musical instrument. The board seemed to favor the professor's suggestion and on motion the matter was left in the hands of the committee on cleaning and supplies and that committee will report at the next meeting. The board then adjourned.

HIS ADVENTURE WITH A MINER.

Startling Experience Among the Molly Maguires and With a Reckless Welshman in a Coal Mine. Story of an Expensive Mistake in Paris.

When the late Julian Ralph, the well known journalist, went to China, he prepared himself very carefully in pigeon English, which he had been told he would find useful. On discovering a Chinaman in his bedroom in Shanghai he exclaimed: "Hello! What ting? What fashion man you blong? What side you come?" To which the Chinaman replied:

"This is Mr. Ralph, I presume? We have mutual friends who suggested my calling on you. Oh, that's all right," he went on. "I spent eight years at school in Norwich, Conn."

"Ah!" said Mr. Ralph, partially recovering his presence of mind. "Very well, very well."

To a correspondent of the New York Press Julian Ralph related this story of one of his experiences as a reporter: "I remember the day," he said, "that took me over the mountain behind Mauch Chunk and into the house of the family of a Molly Maguire who had been hung the day before. In company with a New York Herald man I stood beside the felon's coffin. The whisky, the tobacco, the crooning women and the low browed conspirators and murderers who had been the man's friends were in the room. They asked us if we were reporters, and I said we were."

"They told us in the most extravagant politeness they could command to 'Git!' When they went out into the street, a reputable citizen called us into his store and told us that our presence in the village had led to a determination on the part of the Molly Maguires to kill us after sunset. It was almost sunset then. The necessity for getting our reports into New York was what impelled us to walk again the lonely path over the mountain. Still, I am glad there was some other necessity."

Harry Price, of the West End, is carrying his left hand in a sling, the result of having two of his fingers mashed at the shops recently.

Mrs. Lockhart, of New Cumberland, W. Va., has returned to her home after spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Apple, of Main street.

C. P. Rothwell, the well known attorney, of East Palestine, who is running for the office of prosecuting attorney of the county, was in the city last evening.

Harry McBeth, of the C. & P. shops has resigned his position here. He left yesterday for Buffalo, N. Y., where he will accept a fine position in the Nickel Plate shops.

Miss Elizabeth Runyon, whose home is in this city, but who is employed in McDonald, Pa., was in the city Sunday and conducted the choir at the M. E. church. Miss Runyon will also be here next Sunday for the same purpose.

Rev. L. A. Upshaw, pastor of the Wellsville A. M. E. church, left last evening for Steubenville, where for the balance of the week he will assist Rev. P. Alston, of the A. M. E. church, Steubenville, in holding revival meetings.

REVIVAL SERVICES

At the First M. E. Church Are Arousing Widespread Interest.

Rev. Dr. M. B. Pratt, who for some time has been having revival services at the First Methodist church, is receiving the hearty enthusiasm of the Christians throughout the city. So successful and interesting have been his meetings that there have been now over 100 conversions.

The co-operation of Dr. Pratt and the members of the church has been such that the evening services have been largely attended by those eager to hear the services which are doing others so much good.

The large choir under the direction of Prof. Phyllis has also been contributing to the success of the revival services, and their music has received the appreciation of all.

CONFISCATING TIME.

This Is the Charge Made by Senator Hale Against Mr. Quay.

STATEHOOD BILL HOLDS FORT.

House Makes New Record by Passing Military Academy Bill Without a Single Word of Debate—Sensation in Lesser Bribery Hearing.

Washington, Jan. 27.—In the senate yesterday Mr. Quay, in charge of the omnibus statehood bill, insisted on its consideration to the exclusion of other business. When Senator Platt, of New York, attempted to call up a committee report providing for the printing of a document Mr. Quay objected. Mr. Hale thereupon declared that Mr. Quay was confiscating the time of the senate. The latter replied calmly that this could be obviated by allowing a vote on the statehood bill. A resolution of Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, questioning the credentials of Dr. Herran, the Colombian chargé d'affaires, who signed with Secretary Hay the canal treaty, caused the senate to go into a long executive session. At its conclusion the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill was passed. The Lodge amendment providing for a reorganization of the consular service was ruled out of order and debate thereby cut off.

At 4:30 p.m. the senate adjourned until today.

In the House.

The house yesterday made a new record in the matter of appropriation bills. The military academy bill was passed without a single word of debate.

The Indian bill, which followed, was not completed yesterday, as Mr. Burton (Rep., O.) made a long speech on it in general criticism of the policy of the government toward the Indians.

A resolution was adopted calling on the postmaster general for the correspondence in the Indianapolis Miss. postoffice case.

The house at 5:20 p.m. adjourned.

Lesser Investigation.

Philip Doblin, who testified before the house committee on naval affairs Saturday that he had approached Representative Lesser, of New York, with an offer of money to influence his vote on the submarine boat bill, and who made the further statement that he had been told there might be $1,000 in it for him, made the astounding statement before that committee yesterday that he had made statements Saturday which were not true and that he wanted to retract his statement that Mr. Quigg had tendered a bribe to him.

The statement came without any previous warning that Doblin intended making any such retraction. Members of the committee looked at each other in amazement as Doblin went on with his statement.

Denied Previous Statements.

Gustavus Rogers, an attorney, arose in the committee room after the first witness had left the stand yesterday morning and said that he appeared for Mr. Doblin, who had stated to him that he (Doblin) had made some statements Saturday which were true and some which were false, and held in his hand a statement to which Mr. Doblin had sworn. The committee was unanimous in agreeing that Doblin appear in person forthwith. He was called and made specific denial of all statements he had previously made wherein he alleged attempts at bribery. He was rigidly cross-examined by practically every member of the committee and pressed vigorously for explanation of his action of yesterday, but persisted that he told the truth yesterday and adhered to his denials. When Doblin had left the stand the committee's program, which contemplated calling Dr. W. R. Kerr to the stand, was abandoned, and it went into secret session. Some of the members, in view of the remarkable developments, favored dropping the investigation, but others urged that it be continued. It is understood that Mr. Lesser asked that he be permitted to make a statement, and said that he had another witness he would call, whereupon the committee decided to meet again at 10:30 today.

Representative Lesser was present in the committee room when Doblin gave his statement.

May Come Up Again.

It was stated last night that Philip Doblin, the witness who yesterday retracted his previous testimony before the house naval affairs committee, investigating the Lesser submarine torpedo boat charges, had left the city for New York. The admissions made by Mr. Doblin were discussed informally by the committee yesterday, with a view to determining if any action should be taken in the case. Some of the members expressed the opinion that this should be done, while others were disposed to let the matter drop. No positive determination was reached, but it is probable the matter may come up for future consideration.

Loss $490,000.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—The large department store of A. Lederer & Co., occupying nearly the entire block between Sixty-second and Sixty-third streets, on Halsted street, was damaged by fire yesterday to the extent of $490,000. Nearly the entire loss was on the stock. The store was crowded with shoppers when the alarm was given, but all had ample time to make their escape.

Love is unequally yoked with sickness. Labor is lightened by love, but love cannot lighten pain or relieve it. Many a man looks upon his wife's suffering willing to do anything to aid her and able to do nothing.

Sometimes, however, the husband's attention is directed to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and its remarkable cures of womanly diseases. He may not have much hope of a cure, but he is led to try the medicine, with the result that in almost every case there is a perfect and permanent cure.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures irregularity. It dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. As a tonic for women who are nervous, sleepless, worn-out and run-down "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled.

In answer to your letter I will say, my wife commended to complain twenty years ago writes Lewis A. Miller, ex-chief of Police at Prospect St., Weehawken, N.J. She has tried the services of different doctors. She took gallons of medicine during the time she was ill, until I wrote to you and you sent us what you call "Favorite Prescription" and six of the "Golden Medical Discovery." She can do her own work now and can walk around again and is quite smart.

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

Dislocated Her Shoulder.

Mrs. Johanna Soderholm, of Ferguson Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised for sprains and soreness, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her, and enabled her to sleep which she had not done for several days. The son was so much pleased with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others.

WILL LIFT BLOCKADE

Indications Now Point to a Peaceable Settlement of Venezuelan Trouble.

ITALY IS EAGER TO WITHDRAW.

Minister Bowen at a Late Hour Last Night Had Not Received Answers from the Powers in Reply to His Proposal for Adjustment.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Orders have been sent from Rome to the commanders of the Italian warships in Venezuelan waters, directing them to raise the blockade the instant the English and German fleets do so. This shows plainly that Italy not only herself favors the peaceable settlement which will avoid possible rupture of the cordial relations with the United States which have been strengthened by the Italian ambassador at Washington, but that she is convinced her two allies will also lift the blockade. Such orders would hardly be issued unless the raising of the blockade was regarded in Rome as certain and Italy eager to withdraw from the blockaded fleet as soon as possible.

Count Quadt Calls on President.

Count Quadt, the German chargé d'affaires ad interim, called on President Roosevelt at the White House between 12 and 1 o'clock yesterday, ostensibly to present a kinsman, the son of Prince Quadt and the new German military attaché, Major Etzel. It is understood, however, that he delivered an informal message from Emperor William to the president, which bore on the Venezuelan situation, and which was favorable in tone, and to make nearly positive the feeling in the inner administration circle that the Venezuelan situation will soon come to an amicable and satisfactory settlement.

Frank Fawcett, described the operations of the "credit" or company store system. The prices of articles, he said, were about the same as those charged by other dealers, but admitted that none other than employees of the company were given credit. He stated also that after the company store system had been abolished and he had resorted to the cash basis he had become sufficiently large to meet any crisis.

The report of the special committee on injunction went into the history of the operation of injunctions and after showing the great abuses to which the injunction had contributed, recommended that President Mitchell appoint a committee of two to go to Washington at once and use its influence to secure the passage of its anti-injunction bill (house bill No. 11,360). The special committee is also instructed to get the record of every senator and representative on the bill.

SUGGESTED MANY CHANGES.

The report of the committee on legislation suggested many changes, the most important of which was a change in the voting representation of the districts so far as the power to inaugurate a general suspension of work is concerned. Heretofore every district has had one vote in such matters, irrespective of its size, and two-fifths of the districts could vote to suspend work in all of the districts. Under the amendment adopted there shall be one vote for every 200 members of the district or fraction of that number. It will be possible for each district board member to vote only according to the size of his district. Under the new order it will require about three-fourths of the districts to order a general strike.

The committee reported an amendment to make the initiation fee uniform one of $10 in all of the districts and giving the president power to grant a dispensation for a smaller initiation fee where necessary.

The same amendment also recommended that the top and bottom men shall pay the same as experienced men and that boys between 14 and 16 years pay a $2.50 initiation fee.

The report was adopted.

Last Honors to Deitsch.

Cincinnati, Jan. 27.—The funeral of Colonel Philip Deitsch, late superintendent of police, was held yesterday, and was one of the most notable in the history of the city. For four hours a steady stream of citizens of all classes and professions poured through the Scottish Rite cathedral at a rapid rate to take a last look at his remains. At 2 o'clock the impressive funeral ceremony of the Masonic fraternity were held, with the auditorium crowded and a dense throng in the street unable to gain admittance. The remains were escorted to the cemetery by a large body of police and by a detachment of the First regiment, Ohio national guard.

Stolen Securities Recovered.

St. Louis, Jan. 27.—It is reported from Stanton, Mo., that securities to the amount of $90,000 were recovered yesterday from the house of Frank Rudolph by a party of detectives. These securities were part of the loot of the bank of Union, Mo., which was robbed two days after Christmas, when money and valuable papers amounting to nearly $120,000 were taken. William Anderson, or Randolph, and Frank Lewis, the supposed robbers and murderers of detective Charles J. Schumacher are still at large. A reward of $1,500 has been offered for their arrest.

Prohibitive Initiation Fee.

Following the suggestion of President Mitchell, Delegate Ray Hudson offered an amendment that boys under the age of 14 years be charged $2.50 initiation fee in order to make it prohibitive. The entire matter was finally referred to the different districts. The time for closing the books of the organization was changed to Nov. 30.

The tellers for the annual election, which have been provided for by the convention, were added to the list of elective officers and the date of casting the referendum vote was changed from the first to the second week of December.

A recommendation that check-weightmen employed by miners must be members of the United Mine Workers for three months and must be elected by the organization, and that no person shall have a vote unless he assists in maintaining the weighmen, was adopted.

The committee decided that the matter of taking the fire clay miners into the organization be referred to the American Federation of Labor next year, and the action was carried in.

Paris Fashions as Seen In the Throng at Nice

PARIS, Jan. 3.—I have just come back from the gay Riviera capital, where all Paris seemed to be assembled. Nice, always smart and fascinating, was looking her best. There were much life and movement of well horsed vehicles and of the ubiquitous motor car under her noble avenues of trees, wherein the russet foliage still hung. The shops, to rival which one must seek the Rue de la Paix, were dazzling with beautiful wares. They seemed to display the wealth of Golconda in jewels, furs, dresses, hats, art curios and lace. The flower shops were intoxicating with scent and color from myriads of roses, lilies, violets and other blooms. The new golf links just completed will prove of immense added interest to Nice. The links and greens are first rate and command a splendid view of snow capped mountains and the sunlit bay. A good winter programme was shown at the opera house, and smart men and women are to be seen there every night, going later to the casino and fashionable restaurants.

Every morning the promenades are thronged with stunningly gowned pedestrians, for let it be known that walking, the simple, old fashioned mode of locomotion, is now considered the great remedy for the evils accompanying a superabundance of flesh. In other words, we are recommended to walk, and to walk fast, if we would retain our slim figures. And the costume required to aid us in our unaccustomed exercise needs due consideration. We must discard the full lined suit, as it is not within reach of all, and speak of practical possibilities. We will leave aside the question of underwear and attack the coat and skirt.

The skirt must be short, without compromise. It must just escape the boot and be of equal length at back, front and sides. The coat reaches no farther than the waist and is made of fur, in preference a dark fur in harmony with the skirt. With a touch of color in the hat and in the lining of the muff, we may hope to look well while taking our constitutional.

The newest coat seen was the astrakhan blouse bolero slightly pouched over a band of black velvet at the waist. It has no collar, but the neck is outlined with a black velvet band embroidered in red and dark green silks. The same band finishes the wide bishop sleeve, and the style is very good. With an astrakhan blouse and a shawl of Persia hat, one has a toilet which makes life worth living and will be correct for walking anywhere. For theater and restaurant dining the high neck gown is now worn, but in its material and general fashioning the difference between this and an evening frock lies only in the fact that the bodice is high. The most economical materials for dinner dresses are silk, satin and panne. Any one of these will outwear several gowns composed of lighter fabrics. Black is always smart, particularly when relieved with a wide bertha and trimmings of good lace.

In most instances gowns are adorned with several different kinds of lace, possibly Irish crochet, filet and guipure. Girls look charming in black provided they are not too thin. Always remember that black accentuates thinness. White is also trying. In these matters you must use your own discretion. Most of us, on a limited dress allowance, have to invest in one black frock, whether it suits us or not, simply because it is so useful for a hundred and one occasions. It always looks smart, and in it one never appears overdressed. Chiffon voile is the new fabric for ball gowns and will be much used this year. It has the airy, fairy appearance of chiffon and yet gear and boots. Once she has these important accessories correct she will find it wonderfully easy to appear well dressed. It was quite another matter in the days of tightly boned bodices; but now a graceful and elegant figure can wear the simplest shifts and de-street wear. Such extravagances should be relegated entirely to those who are fortunate enough to own carriages. On the other hand, at a smart "at home" or reception there is nothing handsomer than a white frock, provided it is toned down with mink or sable.

I saw a beautiful frock composed of cream colored crochet over finely plaited crepe de chine in a deep shade of ivory. The bodice seemed to be an inner blouse of accordion plaited crepe de chine, with a loose hanging sack of the coarse crochet lace and a wide band of cream panne. The only color introduced was in a large cluster of parma violets and dark red roses—real ones, by the way—which never seem out of place.

Two lovely voile toilets worn at Nice

The second model was in dove colored silk voile over a shot mauve taffeta. The guipure collar edged with a narrow band of fur, opened in front over a white velvet plastron strapped by bands of black velvet ribbon. A narrow plaiting of voile fashioned in bolero effect displayed the blouse of mauve taffeta beneath. The plaited skirt was broken on either side by inset incrustations of embroidery and guipure with mauve taffeta ruchings. A long, loose wrap lined with ermine and mouseline plisse completed a becoming ensemble.

John Chinaman is exercising a powerful influence on western peoples. We are borrowing his coat for our cloaks and his sleeve bands for the decoration of our boudoirs, and, to cap the climax, silk work—all are in vogue. It matters little whether the stitching is coarse or fine, whether it recalls the Bayeux tapestry or the fine roses of China which look as if they were painted. They copy nature's work, but they do not follow nature faithfully in the east. Birds and flowers alike are conventionalized, and rules of drawing are ignored. Fashions come and go, but these embroideries are always in vogue and have been for centuries. They are so thoroughly and well wrought that they do not deteriorate. Until the last few years Chinese embroidery had been employed as household furnishings rather than on dress, but we are now placing it on effective backgrounds and using it for entire robes and for evening cloaks.

For these effects I think there is no groundwork like black crepe de chine. The long, loose stitched work in white now so much in vogue is devoted principally to cloth materials. We are using medallions of embroidery on many fabrics, and we are brightening up our dark winter gowns with collars and vests worked in colored silk.

Marrying and giving in marriage are always before us. An acceptable novelty is the picture wedding, where the bride, bridesmaids and near relatives wear dresses inspired by old pictures. The lace train is so arranged on the bodice as to form fichus. White satin empire gowns are in favor for attendants, and the guests are wearing a great deal of velvet covered with lace. These gowns often have slashings of satin about the sleeves and bodice after the Tudor style.

A fad for lace which matches the gown in color is one of the eccentricities of the hour. I hardly think it a pretty idea; still some of the heavy yak laces take to the dye very successfully. Another "faddy" idea is that the frock must match one's mood. Our notions of moods are so varied that black for the dumps and red when one is feeling particularly gay are the only general rule for a guide.

Simple little tricks of the needle continue to play a very pretty part in blouses and frocks—for example, instead of a lace yoke a crepe de chine blouse will have the openwork effect contrived by coarse silk veining—really herringbone stitch—with the rouleaux twirled into all kinds of decorative ideas.

I was told the other day that a dainty, fine woolen canvas is the coming material for shirt waists. The shops, I trust, will be able to get skirt lengths, as I can imagine very nice spring shirt waist dresses being made from this canvas. "Sufficient," though, "unto the day," for Dame Fashion will certainly look out for her own in the coming materials.

The Flounce Growing In Importance

Flounces are growing in fussiness and importance day by day, especially where evening exigencies are concerned. A charming creation suitable to a fair debutante was arranged in delicate pink chifon, its trained skirt decked with three frourfrou flounces, each one whereof was stitched with narrow ribbon and lace. The belle bodice was finished by a pointed pelican of the chifon, dotted with dimante and hemmed lace, and bore elbow sleeves with hand-knife wing frills at their base.

Surely no better backing can be had than the following statement from Mrs. Edward Orr, of 220 Thompson street, who says: "My sister, Mrs. Borland, of Pittsburgh, while visiting us, recommended Doan's Kidney Pills, so highly that I was induced to try them. I had severe attacks of kidney complaint. Some times I was so bad I could not get up; many times my neighbors came and found me lying on the lounge suffering, when I intended to do a big day's work. I was so miserable I could do nothing. After my sister told me of the pills I made up my mind to try them and got a box at the W. & W. pharmacy. They did just what they claimed they would—cured me sound and well in a few days. My little girl was feeling poorly and had a sallow complexion for some time. I gave her a few doses and after the treatment she felt splendid."

New Work For the Energetic and Skillful Housewife

We are getting later and later every year about putting our houses into their winter garb. A few seasons ago the first chilly days would bring out the heavy curtains and warm-toned furniture coverings from their summer retirement. But now we are often in the middle of January before we think of rearranging the home. Therefore the many dilatory housewives will have with joy the announcement that there are at last some real novelties in draperies, and one now has a choice of many beautiful and artistically correct materials. The winter room should be suggestive of the luxury of fireside cheer, with the hearth-place for its center, bright, warm colors being the dominant note, colors which will focus every ray of wintry sunshine. It is surprising how the most elementary changes in a scheme will alter the whole character of a room. For instance, copper red for rose pink, orange for primrose, bronze green for soft blue, work a magical transformation from summer to winter environment.

Nothing gives a cozier or more attractive appearance to an apartment than handsome and appropriately draped doors and windows. A new and extremely beautiful fabric for decorative purposes and door draperies especially has recently been imported. It is called meronac velvet, and its creation is of considerable importance to the decorative possibilities of the class of textiles to which it belongs. This beautiful velours and its many adaptations are the work of an artistic Englishwoman's brain. She has borrowed a little from the bookbinders' art in the working out of her charming designs. The process to which this meronac velvet owes its loveliness may be described as a species of hand tooling on velvet whereby exquisite effects of light and shade are produced on its surface.

To the uninitiated the word "tooling" is an unknown quantity, but after consulting a reliable authority we find that it is "decoration applied to leather or other materials by means of stamps and other metallic tools, which are applied hot, producing impressed patterns upon the surface." In the new English designs the effect is mostly worked out in gold leaf, which shades to copper and even green and acid red tones. The whole effect is fascinatingly beautiful.

The variations of which this meronac velvet is capable form another satisfactory characteristic. It may be used merely as a border or worked up into all over patterns on a portiere. A beautiful design is made of dull rose meronac velours having an adaptation of an old Italian scroll design entirely carried out in tooling a study of strong, yet delicate, fine drawing on a perfectly plain background. The all over effects are good, but the best results are from applied tooling velvet on a ground to do, classes will be formed to teach the new cult.

Another new design in the liberty tapestries is the Belvoir. In its varied harmonies of color it fills a long-felt need for a material of moderate price design is very deep at the bottom and at the sides near the front of the hanging, but it gradually narrows up to nothing at the top. It is the last cry now to have the heavy lace reach about three-quarters down the window length. The style is an awkward one; still we must have something different even if it is quite the ugliest thing possible.

Can you imagine a really handsome portiere being made of ten cent denim? It has been most successfully accomplished by a woman not particularly blessed with skillful fingers. The only difficulty lies in getting a perfectly

These must be at least two inches in depth running across the entire width of the curtain. Paint these figures in primary shades in water colors. You will probably find that the paints at first leave little impression, the colors sinking imperceptibly into the denim; but, without a thought of being slangy, the only thing to do is to rub it in until the right depth of tone is reached. When this drapery is lined with red denim and bordered by a fringe of old-fashioned macrame, the effect is simply stunning. It goes without saying that a curtain of this description is only appropriate for a den or smoking room. An interlining of canton flannel gives weight and enables the drapery to fall in heavy, graceful folds. Let the flannel lining be several inches shorter than the outside fabric and loose at the bottom. This avoids the puckery appearance which proclaims the homemade affair. A fine cream sateen lining is almost as good as silk.

Jaspé velvets, linen plush and kid-like fabrics rank high as ever in the category of winter draperies, especially when made up with borders of dull gold furniture lace or braid, a fashion which is greatly in favor.

One other novelty must be described—the Arabian lace curtain trimmings made with shaped corners to form a complete border. The rich, heavy texture of the lace, with its warm earth tint, makes an admirable contrast to the plain colored materials used, such as moire or the new satin de reine.

ELIZABETH SCOTT RAYMOND,

Controlling Children.

Bursts of passion in a little child must be met by steady, gentle firmness on the mother's side. Loud outcries should be hushed not by angry words, but by a grave quietness of voice and speech, which helps to repress them by mere force of contrast.

Passionate gestures, such as blows, kicks and drumming with the heels upon the floor should be prevented by physical force if necessary. Above all, the thing coveted, if it causes the child to fly into a rage, as the readiest means of obtaining it, should never be granted. As the child grows older and can be reasoned with he or she should be taught to avoid the beginnings of wrath, to struggle against irritability, and not to give way to it in words when it rises in the mind.

Quick tempered children often have generous, lovable natures, easily influenced for good. A wish to please another and to do what is right for its own sake may be made strong enough to close the lips against the torrent of angry words that rushes to them and help them to victory. Each effort at self conquest makes the next one easier.

Flushed Faces.

A woman's flushed face is generally caused either by tight lacing or by indigestion. Drink cocoa instead of tea, rich, indigestible foods and wear corsets quite loose. Red bands and arms, too, are often due to tight lacing and in some cases to tight sleeves.

Do not use furniture polishes on a piano. Merely rub it with a soft, dry cloth.

appropriate for a den or smoking room. The idea is prevalent that heavy curtains are difficult for the novice to make. On the contrary, they are exceedingly simple. If a little common sense is brought to bear on the subject, The essential point is to have a long table on which to stretch the material. If any kind of applique design is to be used, not of the tooling variety, it should be stamped and then laid on the place fastened with photograph's paste. When perfectly dry, the edges of the design are couched with gold or cord of smooth piece of green denim. When this is purchased, measure the length required for the hanging, allowing a fall at the top for the pole to run through. Then draw in a fringe of Indian figures, totem poles or any kind of odd device peculiar to the red man.

for library and dining room curtains. The smartest and most exclusive material for window draperies is fashioned of a light, but soft and firm white upholstery silk trimmed with an applique of Irish crochet lace made especially for the curtain in question. This

Among Them Two Churches Shortly to Be Erected in Chester.

Among the new buildings to be erected in Chester the coming spring are the new Catholic and Presbyterian churches recently organized, and they each will start with a large membership. Extensive preparations are now being made by the Catholics to get their church under way just as soon as the weather opens up. Several hundred dollars have already been subscribed. The fair this week will add several more hundred dollars.

The Presbyterians expect to have their own building ready for occupancy by the early fall.

East End Boys Arrested for Snowballing—Two Appeared And Were Fined.

Seven hours of hilarity last evening terminated disastrously for a woman giving as her name Rosie Sibley and her residence as Oil City, Pa. She was arrested at about 11:30 o'clock by Officer Saulsbury, who preferred a charge of drunk and disorderly against her.

Before Mayor Davidson this morning his honor imposed the usual fine. She did not produce and was again committed to the jail. Going after a concealed purse she discovered that $3.14 remained as a remembrance of her evening's enjoyment. She also had a ring for which she paid $8 not more than a year ago. These she had Sanitary Burgess take and instructed him to make a plea for her liberty. The officer's flow of eloquence soon had its effect and in a short time Rosie was breathing free air.

Two others fell into the hands of the police also during the evening. They were Barney O'Rourke, arrested by Officer Woods and Jack Sharp, by Officer Rose. Neither had a penny and no way of securing one. As a result they were given a lecture and given freedom.

For throwing snowballs in the East End, in the vicinity of the Horace Mann school building, four boys were arrested by Officer Fisher yesterday afternoon. He did not lock them up and two of them appeared for trial this morning. They were Jim Weisend and Jim Sinclair. Both were fined $1 and costs and given a severe lecture.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS ABOUT PROPOSED STREET CAR ROUTE.

A Property Holder Asks If the City Desires to Have Pennsylvania Avenue Ruined.

The Patterson Foundry and Machine Company.

East Liverpool, O., Jan. 27, 1903.

To the Editor of the News Review:

A word about the new street car line to East End beginning on Fifth street, at Market street, extending over part of Pennsylvania avenue, then over the new East End road to the East End. Do the public and the city council want this road over this route?

If so, why so much secrecy? Why do the newspapers have nothing to say about it? Cannot the dear public be trusted to know its wants, that it is necessary to keep it from any knowledge until the right of way has been secured?

Let us examine this proposed right of way and see what reasons, if any there are, for it. To commence with Pennsylvania avenue; where it intersects with Kossuth street, we have an angle and a grade that is worse than the one on the Calcutta route where so many accidents have occurred. Do we want a repetition of this awful record?

Then the new East End road that has cost more than $30,000 to build and not yet paid for, the only decent inlet to the city, and by the way a monument to those members of council who worked so hard and suffered so much abuse for it building, do we want it ruined?

To this friends of the proposed route make answer that they have bought a right of way immediately adjacent to and parallel with this new road—which we believe to be only 15 feet wide! Will it be any less dangerous to teams or to those using this road by reason of them having seconded this? Will they not run at their own speed, will it not entail upon council the expense of maintaining a costly railing the entire length of about 1½ miles?

To those who own teams or drive over this splendid road, are you ready to surrender your rights to a corporation and realize the same results that have been realized on the road from this city to Wellsville, which is almost impassable for vehicles of any class? Every few days there is one or more teams on this road knocked out and often thrown over a steep embankment.

I do not believe that either the citizens of East Liverpool or its members of council are ready to make this sacrifice for another street car line to the East End. However, if the members of council think best to make this sacrifice, then let there be no secrecy in the matter. Let there be no closed meetings with its members and the representatives of this proposed street railway. Suspend no rules, but rather let each step take its regular and legal course. Advertise for bids for said franchise, for these will be competition for it. Yours Respectfully,

MONROE PATTERSON.

NOTICE.

Fatal Mine Fire.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 27.—The tipple of the Harris Lankford mine, three miles west of here, was burned yesterday morning. One man was killed and four others were so badly suffocated that their recovery is doubtful. The mine, which is a small one, has but one entrance, and fire destroyed the hoisting machinery, rendering the work of rescue very difficult.

The 20 men working below were hoisted to the surface by ropes, and all were more or less suffocated. The dead: James Webner, aged 35, married, no children. Probably fatally injured: Archer Conkling, Virgil Conkling, James Blackburn and an unknown man, a visitor to the mine.
